Andrews Convicted Of Lying

Guilty on three of five perjury counts, the Criminal Dist. Court jury decided at 1:30 a.m., after deliberating two hours and 40 minutes.

"I really shouldn't complain," said Andrews with a heavy sign moments before he was hustled off to jail. "If I didn't have bad luck, I wouldn't have any at all."

Defense attorney Harry Burglass immediately announced an appeal will be filed on many points of law.

Judge Frank J. Shea did not set a date for sentencing.

Burglass said Andrews, 44, will not be eligible for bond until he has been sentenced. Maximum sentence would be five years.

The case went to the jury before midnight after marathon debate for five days and included a Sunday session - so unusual the judge had to check the lawbooks to see if it was legal.

The trial was before a five-man jury because the charge of perjury is a misdemeanor under Louisiana law. Twelve-member juries are reserved for felony cases.

In final arguments, the state accused Andrews of trying "to play games" with the Orleans Parish grand jury which is probing an alleged assassination plot.

The prosecution said Andrews wound up trapped in lies.

On the contrary, said Burglass, what the state truly indicated to Andrews was: "Tell us what we want to hear, Dean, and then it's all right."

Five counts of perjury against Andrews, a lawyer who once advised Lee Harvey Oswald on minor legal matters, were filed primarily because he said he could not identify Clay L. Shaw as the mysterious Clay Bertrand.

Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison contends that Shaw, 54, a wealthy New Orleans businessman, used "Bertrand" as an alias to plot the murder of Kennedy.

The defense rested its case after playing a voice tape of Andres' replies to state interrogation before the grand jury March 16.

"He told them the truth," said Burglass. "But he's got a jivey way of doing it. He told them Clay Shaw was not Clay Bertrand, but they said he lied.

"Most of us live humdrum lives. But something exciting happened to Dean - Bertrand. Up until that time, he didn't have an enemy in the world. He was on TV, he was here, he was there. He got swirled up into something a lot bigger than anything he had ever dreamed."

A desire for attention, said Asst. Dist. Atty. James Alcock, is not an excuse for lying to the grand jury trying to determine whether there was a conspiracy to kill a president.

Alcock stressed that Andrews, at his second grand jury appearance, identified Bertrand as Eugene Davis, a French Quarter bar owner - and when asked why he hadn't said so before, replied:

"So I lied. So I committed perjury. I don't know what I said."

Fliers Repeat Strikes

SAIGON (AP) -- U.S. warplanes struck for the second straight day today at North Vietnamese targets just 10 miles from Red China's border, along the major railroad from China to Hanoi.

The attacks Sunday and today were closer to the Chinese border than any previous air raids in the Vietnam war.

Navy A6 Intruders and A4 Skyhawks from the carrier Constellation in the Tonkin Gulf raked the Lang Son railroad bypass bridge 63 miles north of Haiphong. Pilots reported dropping the southern span of the 360-foot, four-span structure.

A U.S. military spokesman said the bridge is half a mile east of the Lang Son railroad and highway bridge which was knocked out in raids near the Chinese border Sunday.

The Navy said the bridge was one of two bypass bridges being built by the North Vietnamese at Lang Son to link with the major rail line.

Other Navy pilots from the Constellation hammered a rail siding south of Lang Son and pilots said they cut the tracks in several places.

The pilots reported they encountered only light antiaircraft fire.

No planes were reported lost in the latest raids, but the U.S. Command announced that in Saturday's 151 attacks on the North, an F105 Thunderchief and an RF4C reconnaissance plane were shot down by ground fire. All three crewmen were listed as missing.

This brought to 641 the total of announced U.S. warplane losses over North Vietnam.

TURNING THE FIRST spade for the new First General Baptist church building to be erected on Kennedy and Winter Drive was its pastor, the Rev. Robert I. Jones.

Ground Broken for New Baptist Church

Ground breaking for the First General Baptist church brought out more than 150 Sunday at 3 p.m. for a 30-minute ceremony at the corner of Kennedy and Winter Drive in Collins North Acres.

The pastor, the Rev. Robert I. Jones, presided.

Construction on the $110,000 church will get underway immediately. Completion is scheduled in six months. Investment Builders of Lubbock, Tex., have the contract.

The colonial type structure will face south on Kennedy and be an L-shape building. The auditorium will seat 388. There will be an educational plant of 22 classrooms, library, kitchen, pastor's study, office and two nurseries. The building will be air conditioned.

The church has grown from ten on organization July 17, 1938, to 191.

First services were held in an abondoned store building on Smith Avenue. In 1950 a new building was erected on Smith Avenue.

The lot for the new church was purchased two years ago. Six pastors have served the church, the Revs. J. N. Warren, T. H. Kindred, Arthur Johnson, Roy Stanfill, Hershel Asa, and the Rev. Mr. Jones, who has served since 1954.

The building committe is composed of Bill Ryan Sr., Warren Harber, J. D. Harper, J. D. Mitchell and the Rev. Mr. Jones.

Other church officers are, Ryan, Sunday School superintendent; Harper, church treasurer; Duke, music director; Jerry Wilson, president of men's brotherhood.

Warfield was taken to St. Mary's hospital at Cairo.

Arnold Heuiser Chosen Top Area Young Farmer

Arnold B. Heuiser, route four, Sikeston, was selected to represent the Junior Chamber of Commerce as the area's outstanding young farmer.

The announcement was made by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, Saturday night during a pause in the annual Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo.

Three area men made the selection. Three top contenders were selected from eight considered for the award.

The other top contenders are Clyde Hawes, Matthews, and Roy Birk, Lusk Chapel. Both are row crop farmers.

Heuiser is a dairy and row crop farmer. He farms about 270 acres near Morehouse, and has 54 head of Holstein dairy cattle in pens.

His approximate yields per acre last year were corn 126 bushels, soybeans 34 bushels, wheat 39. The average yearly milk production per cow was more than 1,400 pounds.

Heuiser will represent Sikeston in state competition at the American Royal Livestock Show in October at Kansas City, if he is selected one of the top three farmers in the state.

The top three in the state will be selected in September by a committee of judges. The state winner will compete for the national Jaycee recognition.

Peter Myers, Canalou, won the state and national awards after being selected by the Jaycees in 1966.

Heuiser is married to the former Elizabeth Wallace. They have three children, Kevin Dale, 9, Beth Lynn, 6, and Patty Ann, 4. He is active in the Trinity Baptist Church.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Rep. Thaddeus J. Dulski, New York Democrat, is sharper than his name implies.

The third ranking member of his party on the House post office committee, pocketed a $11,000 profit from a testimonial dinner in his honor in September a la Senator Thomas Dodd of Connecticut.

There were 400 guests at the $50-a-plate dinner in Buffalo. Present were leaders of postal unions, lobbyists and big volume mailers.

What will the guests receive in return?

If future performance corresponds to recent history, the postal workers will get an increase in pay and greater fringe benefits.

The rates of junk mail users will be held at comparatively low levels so that the number of these box stuffers will increase above present levels amidst loud complaints from the general public.

What will the general public, the newspapers, the magazines and other mail users get from it?

Higher postage rates.

All this at a time when the life of some newspapers is threatened by the squeeze of soaring operating costs in which outrageous feather bedding demands, exhorbitant wage demands of unions, prohibition of increased efficiency and economy by automation, and higher postage rates are factors.

The welfare of the nation's magazines is sad to behold. General circulation magazines put out issues that are lean on advertising. Higher postal rates on these anemic publications will contribute to their early death despite the worthwhile contribution they make to society.

Postal deficits go higher despite the increases while service in many respects declines partially because so much of every postal increase is earmarked by Congress for wages of postal employes.

Another reason is that junk mail users don't pay anything approaching their fair share of the costs.

Conditions aren't going to change much as long as the unionists, lobbyists and the big volume mailers have such dear and compliant friends as Dulski to entertain.

The congressman is remorseful. He promises never to throw another dinner.

Instead he should be thrown out of Congress.

The doves in Congress and the creeps in the street work 24 hours a day hanging crepe on this country's prospects in Vietnam.

According to them the military effort is going badly, North Vietnam bombing is ineffective, terrorists are active, the Viet Cong cannot be whipped, our pacification effort is riddled with graft and tainted by failure, the war is a struggle between two Vietnamese factions and the Communist influence is incidental, the Vietnamese people do not approve of or support the South Vietnamese government, they aren't interested in who rules or how they are ruled but want jobs, food and shelter, no victory is possible.

This defeatest talk is an across - the - board indictment of this country's military effort in Southeast Asia and it plays right into the hands of the enemy.

Fortunately it isn't true.

Vietnam is a complex country. It still has problems but the military effort there has begun to pay off.

From many sources come reports that stability has replaced uncertainty.

Terrorist attacks in many sections of Vietnam, including Saigon, once routine, have become isolated. It is possible to travel by car, bus and train through sections of the country where once it was necessary for a regiment to clear first.

Children, once starved, now are well fed. Prosperity has replaced the poverty deepened by the ravages of war.

Saigon has become an international city like many peaceful counterparts throughout the world -- at least almost like them.

Those who have been to Vietnam and who possess any objectivity agree that a degree of military success has been achieved.

They are less convincing when they talk about the pacification program.

But no civic action program can possibly be effective under a state of seige when terrorists disrupt the efforts and battle conditions prevail.

At least stability gives the program the opportunity to make progress.

The Vietnam war is a test of the patience of the American people.

It is a war of limited objectives and the prospects are rising that the United States will have a limited success in its efforts to win the war and win the peace there for the South Vietnamese people.

CALLANAN-LAWLER THROWN FOR LOSS

Reversing its earlier decision to set St. Louis steamfitter wages in Jefferson City and central Missouri, the Missouri Industrial Commission has partially made up for this bungle that could have cost taxpayers millions of dollars.

It also has belatedly slammed the door in the faces of power - hungry Lawrence Callanan and John L. Lawler, steamfitter bosses, who sought to take over the Jeff City and mid-state area for their Local 562.

The commission earlier this year astonished Missourians by setting St. Louis Local 562's pay scales as the "prevailing rates" in Jefferson City and in the mid-state area. This was $2.12 1/2 above wage rates being paid by contractors on private projects in Jefferson City under their agreement with the steamfitter local there.

Commission chairman James J. Butler contended at that time the higher St. Louis fitter rate was actually the prevailing scale because of the large number of Local 562 workers employed in construction of a $5,500,000 private plant at Jeff City.

Now Mr. Butler says the number of steamfitters being paid at St. Louis Local 562 rates has diminished to the point where they are outnumbered by those receiving the lower pay of the Jeff City local. Thus, he says, the prevailing rate now is that provided by the city's steamfitter - contractor agreement.

Missouri taxpayers thus will be spared a multi-million dollar gouging.

Mr. Butler's explanation for the commission's reversal sounds as fishy as the previous attempt to justify the much higher Local 562 pay in Jeff City.

What seems apparent is that this raw deal to Missouri taxpayers - first revealed by The Globe - Democrat - couldn't stand the light of day. Gov. Warren Hearnes understandably ordered another review of this commission ruling.

Hopefully there will be no more decisions that favor labor bosses such as Gallanan and Lawler, over the state's taxpayers.

Unit train service has kept coal-by-train competitive with mine-mouth power plants -- where the utility builds its plants near a coal supply and transmits electric energey via high voltage lines -- and with coal slurry pipelines.

HANDCUFFING THE POLICE

The United States has long prided itself on the protection afforded citizens by the fine and dedicated police departments in this country. But there is increasing evidence that policemen are being hindered in their work by new and supposedly progressive ideas that prevent the policeman from performing his primary duty: the protection of the life, liberty, and property of the innocent.

In Los Angeles, official police department policy instructs the policeman to become a "street - corner sociologist." Obviously, if a policeman must stop to psychoanalyze the law-breaker, his effectiveness as a law - enforcer will be sharply curtailed. A policeman who does his job well need not worry about community relations. The innocent will respect him, and the guilty will be deterred from criminal behavior.

In addition, recent Supreme Court decisions, such as the Miranda case, also stand in the way of effective law enforcement. These decisions curtail the police in the interrogation of suspects and the obtaining of confessions. Rather than protecting the innocent as their supporters say, these decisions actually serve to protect the guilty.

Baltimore's state attorney announced recently that at least 72 self-confessed criminals, including murderers, had been released on the basis of the Miranda case.

A three - year - F.B.I. study of 167,000 offenders has indicated that emphasis on community relations and legal technicalities has limited the effectiveness of the police and allowed many criminals to go free.

Those who are innocent have nothing to fear when the law is enforced objectively and competently. The community has a great deal to fear when police are prevented from doing their jobs. H.L.H.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- The international intrigue over the premature publication of the memoirs of Stalin's daughter, Svetlana Alliluyeva, is even stranger than so far has leaked into print.

The mystery man in the story is Victor Louis, a bespectacled 39-year-old Soviet journalist, whom U.S. intelligence has now identified as a Kremlin agent.

The intrigue began after Svetlana's startling defection to the west, an event that jolted the Russians as severely as the defection of Caroline Kennedy to Russia 20 years from now would shock Americans.

The state department, not wishing to get involved officially, asked ex-Ambassador to Moscow George Kennan to keep Svetlana from strumbling into any pitfalls. He called in his next - door neighbor, Attorney Edward Greenbaum, whose Madison Avenue law firm obligingly took Svetlana under its wing.

Svetlana had brought out of Russia her memoirs, all neatly typed and ready for translation. But she also left a copy behind.

Greenbaum immediately parceled out the right to Svetlana's writings to his own publishing clients, though they did not submit the highest offers.

Harper and Row, a Greenbaum client, bought the first serial rights. Life magazine also purchased rights to print advance excerpts from the book. Although life is not a Greenbaum client, it is in the family so to speak. Marian Sulzberger, daughter of the New York Times publisher, is married to Andrew Heiskell, the Time - Life board chairman.

All belong to Greenbaum's circle of friends and clients.

How much these distinguished publications paid Svetlana hasn't been announced, but it's no secret that she became a millionaire capitalist quicker than any Communist on record. Time magazine claimed she collected a record $3,200,000 from both American and British publishers, and time should be in a position to know.

Harper and Row set October as the release date for Svetlana's memoirs, and the New York Times planned a 12-instalment serialization beginning in late September. Life magazine will print its excerpts simultaneously.

ENTER VICTOR LOUIS

The autumn publishing date happens to coincide with the Soviet Union's 50th anniversary celebration, and the conspiratorial - minded men in the Kremlin detected a plot. They darkly concluded that the United States hoped to detract from the celebration by raising the ghost of Stalin by way of Svetlana's memoirs.

Soviet intermediates first tried to persuade Harper and Row to change the publication date, but the publisher refused.

Then Victor Louis suddenly appeared on the scene with the manuscript Svetlana had left behind, plus pictures from her family album. He offered these last May to Parade magazine, whose editor, Jess Gorkin, turned him down. Gorkin considered it unethical to run a story that other publications had purchased.

Louis finally peddled his bootleg manuscript to European publishers. To protect their copyright, the legitimate British publisher, Hutchinson and Company, rushed a Russian - language version of the book into print.

The highlights of Svetlana's story were picked up and printed around the world. Presumably this was the Kremlin's aim, since the story will now be stale news when the Soviets begin celebrating their 50th anniversary.

But the New York Times and Time-Life, which paid through the nose for the first rights, were furious over being scooped. They began digging into how it happened, and found Victor Louis at the bottom of the woodpile.

Time angrily accused him of peddling the manuscript and pictures like "a salesman of obscene postcards." The New York Times ran a series of stories exposing Louis as a Kremlin agent.

In Europe, Louis fussed and fumed. He got on the transatlantic phone to find out whether he could sue. He claimed plaintively that he was merely an enterprising Russian journalist, and there is no denying that he made a sizable capitalist profit on the deal.

Meanwhile, the Russians are exploring the possibility of filing suits in the United States and Europe for the profits on the memoirs. The Soviets contend that Svetlana wrote her memoris originally as letters to her children, therefore they are the legal owners of the manuscript.

Note -- a spokesman for the Greenbaum law firm refused all comment, except to acknowledge that Harper and Row and the New York Times were clients.

DORTICOS IRKS CONGRESSMEN

Some congressmen have privately urged taking military action against Cuba. As justification, they point out that Cuba has virtually declared war on the United States by calling for Guerrilla warfare in our cities.

Cuban President Dorticos, in his opening address to the Communist solidarity conference in Havana, announced a policy of "Armed Struggle" not only against the United States but against other Latin American Governments. He spoke openly of organizing Guerrilla forces to stir up "revolution" and "violence" on the U.S. mainland.

This formal statement by the Cuban president, the congressmen contend, should entitle the United States to use military force against the Castro government. A public statement announcing preparations for Guerilla warfare against this country constitutes a belligerent act, they say.

Their private statements, however, aren't likely to influence President Johnson, who believes that the $1 million - a - day that Cuba is costing the Kremlin hurts Russia more than all dictator Castro's breast - beating is damaging the United States.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Romney Charges 'Great Society' Doesn't Trust American Consumers

There is a domestic front. Not all the issues of the coming presidential battle will be international, or of war and peace, or of Vietnam. Thus, the other day I turned to Republican front runner, Gov. George Romney, and asked what he believed would be the most critical problems "stateside."

Mr. Romney lashed at government intervention in the private lives of the citizenry, and controls on labor and management. Labor, he charged, now is becoming monopolistic with the aid of federal statutes.

Here, in his own words, is the definitive statement of the beliefs of a leading contender for the Republican presidential monination:

By George Romney
Governor of Michigan

Lansing: -- The great political economist Henry L. Simons once observed that there are only two ways to discipline an economy: By competition or by absolute authority.

Historically, America chose competition.

Through competition, we have given the customer ultimate power to regulate the economy, through his own free choices in the market place -- just as he has the ultimate power to control his government, through his free choices at the ballot box.

Competing enterprises bid freely and fiercely for the favor of the customer. The producer prospers or dies at the will of the customer. And the customer reaps the principal benefits of economic progress.

Consumer sovereignty in a free market has made the American economy the envy of the world.

But consumer sovereignty faces grave challenges today. One comes from the diminishing faith in our competitive enterprise system, fed by the theories of the advocates of a planned society.

One of The Great Society's most renowned economic prophets recently wrote: "Everyone, including all economists, agrees on consumer sovereignty in principle, but no one wants to trust it in practice."

This economist and much of The Great Society clearly demonstrate that they don't trust the American customer. The trust of their argument is that industry, not the customer, controls and manages demand, telling the customer what he wants or should have, and managing the customer's life.

I thoroughly disagree. I trust the customer. Trust in the customer was the basis for the recovery program at American Motors ten years ago, when I was its president.

I believe that consumer sovereignty is the keystone to our competitive enterprise system. If we are to continue to progress as a nation, consumer sovereignty must be protected and strengthened at all costs. But if The Great Society economic planner are right, and if industry is indeed manipulating consumers, then the next logical step is for government to do the manipulating.

The basic problem with this type of thinking is that it replaces consumer sovereignty with government sovereignty. And substitution of government sovereignty is bad news for the consumer and bad news for the economy. Government has the tendency to move in too fast, to go too far, to stay too long, and to make its regulations too rigid. Sooner or later, governmental regulation stifles initiative, innovation, and progress.

Look at today's collective bargaining situation. In the 1930s new laws encouraged union organization. The main reason was that too many companies refused to recognize the economic rights of their employees. But government regulations appropriate to the needs of the '30s, when workers were not organized, have persisted into the '60s, when a completely different situation prevails. Laws designed to secure to individual workers the benefits of collective bargaining now foster and promote the existence of vast concentrations of bargaining power, which create an inflationary wage - cost - price push.

Thus laws enacted to protect individuals have become not only out of date but a detriment to consumers who pay for them in inflated prices and loss of sovereignty in the market place.

Today's laws governing business prohibit monopoly; today's laws governing unions encourage monpoly. This fundamental conflict distorts our entire economic scene, and it must be corrected. There is nothing inherently wrong with bigness. The danger comes in the excessive concentration of economic power in a few hands.

When a basic industry and an industry - wide union meet at the bargaining table, the echoes can be heard around the world. Their actions usually affect our entire economy.

In my opinion, this is just too much economic power to vest in a few individuals or a few organizations.

In my opinion, this is just too much economic power to vest in a few individuals or a few organizations.

My fears are based on more than economic influence. For only one force is greater than the combined power of a major industry and a major union locked in unyielding struggle at the bargaining table. That greater force is government.

As a result, current political discussion is concentrated on methods of substituting government sovereignty and authority in the field of collective bargaining for that of unions and companies. Free collective bargaining is in gravest jeopardy. And if free collective bargaining disappears, competitive determination of prices will disappear too. Unless we find a better answer, government determination of wages and prices is not far down the road.

In my judgment, we should divide the growing concentration of monopoly union and employer power by putting collective bargaining between enterprises on the same competitive basis as prices.

In those basic industries which are made up of our large corporations, the competition should be among individual enterprises, each with its team of management, workers, and their unions. Each enterprise -- each team of management, workers and unions -- should conduct its own wage negotiations in the light of its own conditions, its own facts, and its own problems. In industries which are composed of smaller enterprises, the wage competition should be among groups of enterprises in separate markets and areas.

In such cases, wage negotiations need not be conducted on a company by - company basis -- but bargaining should be on a regional or area basis, rather than on a national industry-wide basis.

Nationwide strikes or lockouts in such industries cannot be tolerated. Such power is excessive and must be divided to protect the people's role, both as customers and citizens.

The solutions to this problem must not subject individual workers to the old dog-eat-dog competition with one another, where they were encouraged to accept lower wages or inferior working conditions to undercut their fellow workers in competing for jobs. That would be wrong.

But wage rates for competing enterprise teams cannot be taken out of competition, as they are in many of our basic industries today, or government will move in sooner or later to set wage rates and put an end to collective bargaining. Wage control would make price control inevitable and that would be the end of our competitive economy.

Roxanna D. Reinagel Says Vows With Gary Ziegler

KELSO -- St. Augustine's Catholic Church here was the setting Saturday morning for the wedding of Miss Roxanna D. Reinagel and Gary J. Ziegler. The double ring ceremony was performed by the pastor, the Rev. Joseph F. Keusenkothen, amid arrangements of twin baskets of white gladioli. Nuptial music was provided by Sister Janet Marie and the church choir.

The former Miss Reinagel is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Reinagel of Illmo, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ziegler of Benton.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported silk organza and peau d'ange lace. The empire bodice was of the same lace featuring elbow-length scalloped Kabuka sleeves. The front of the bodice was lavishly trimmed with seed pearls. A wide band of scalloped lace outlined the bottom of the semi-controlled organza skirt. The queen's court train of double layers of organza gathered at the top on a bank of lace, floating from the high waist into a full chapel length. A three tiered bouffant hand rolled veil of imported English illusion was attached to a flower circlet of orange blossoms and stephanotis, with sprays of the flowers trellising down the sides, entwining in her hair. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

The bride's attendants, Mrs. Norbert Ziegler and Miss Charlotte Bollinger of Illmo, were dressed alike in formal gowns of taffeta and white lace. A sleeveless cut-a-way coat of the same fabric was worn over gowns with self fabric bows accenting the shoulders. One coat was jonquil yellow and the other mint green. Nosetip veils of silk maline were attached to headdresses dyed to match their gowns, floral caps with streamers of flowers trellising down the back. They each carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums.

The flower girl, Gaynell Robert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Robert of Benton, wore a mint green dress styled like that of the attendants. She carried a basket of yellow pompons. Kenneth Reinagel, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

Ziegler chose his brother, Norbert Ziegler of Illmo, as bestman and Thomas Reinagel of Illmo, brother of the bride, as groomsman. Ushers were Ronald Glastetter of Chaffee and Roy Ziegler of Benton, brother of the groom.

Following the ceremony an all day reception was held in the St. Lawrence School Hall in New Hamburg. Miss Theresa Ziegler presided at the guest register.

The new Mrs. Ziegler is a 1965 graduate of Notre Dame High school in Cape Girardeau, and is employed as shipping clerk by Sport Specialty Shoemakers in Chaffee. Ziegler, a 1963 graduate of Kelly high school at Benton, is attending Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau.

After a short wedding trip the newlyweds will make their home in Scott City.

Carol Ann Kern July Bride of Floyd Klipfel

NEW HAMBURG -- The St. Lawrence Catholic church was the setting July 29 for the wedding of Miss Carol Ann Kern and Floyd J. Klipfel. The Rev. Clem Ilmberger performed the double ring ceremony before an altar appointed by hydrangeas and zinnias in arrangement. Nuptial music was played by Mrs. Charles Klueppel.

The former Miss Kern is the daughter of Mrs. Rose Kern of New Hamburg and Klipfel is the son of Mrs. Ella Klipfel of Oran.

The bride's gown was of Chantilly lace with bouffant skirt worn over hoops. Lace ruffles cascaded to form the skirt and train, and sequins trimmed the ruffles. She carried a bouquet of white roses about an orchid.

A sister of the bride, Miss Barbara Kern, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were another sister, Miss Charlene Kern, Miss Vickie Glastetter, Miss Dorothy Dirnberger, Mrs. Jewel Moore and Miss Roxie Reinagel. Deana Klipfel was flower girl.

Two bridesmaids wore pink, sleeveless formal gowns of taffeta with white lace panels at front; two others wore similar gowns in yellow hue, and the remaining two wore blue gowns. Colonial hats to match their gowns were worn by the attendants who carried bouquets of roses that also matched their attire.

Calvin Glastetter was bestman and groomsmen were Junior Kern and Donald Kern, brothers of the bride, Danny Burger, Gary Ziegler and Jewel Moore. Russell Burger served as ringbearer. Ushers were Elmer J. Kern, another brother of the bride, and Alvin Stause of Leopold.

Rainbow colors in streamers decorated the school hall where a reception was held after the service. Mrs. Estel Horrell and Mrs. Ralph Klipfel invited guests to enter their names in the guest book.

Johnson Family Reunited Sunday

WASHINGTON AP - The Johnson family reunited Sunday after beaches and business had taken everyone but grandpa-the President-and Little Lyn Nugent away from the White House.

Luci and Patrick J. Nugent flew in from Nassau in the Bahama Islands, where they had returned for a week-long vacation to their oceanside villa honeymoon spot of a year ago.

The suntanned couple left their 7-week-old son in the hands of his nurse and grandparent babysitters while they were away.

A White House spokesman quoted Luci as saying she didn't know how it was going to be to part with her baby for the first time but that she came home thinking it was good for everybody.

The Nugents are expected to leave in a few days for their Austin, Tex., home and a stop at Waukegan, Ill., to visit his parents.

Mrs. Johnson, who had been at the LBJ ranch in Texas for a few days to make decisions on an addition to the house there, flew back to Washington late Saturday night.

And Lynda, the other Johnson daughter, rejoined the family after a weekend at Rehoboth Beach, Del.

"It was just a routine day. We hovered over New Jersey for a while, touched down in Connecticut, went over the end of Long Island, and came home."

Increased professional police training is no longer a desirable goal, no longer a matter of choice for United State law enforcement. It is an absolute necessity. J. Edgar Hoover

A middle-aged woman, a society dowager type, walked into a hatshop on Fifth Avenue. She pointed to a hat in the window. "That green hat with the feathers," she said, "would you be kind enough to take it out of the window for me?"

"Certainly, Madam," the salesman replied, "I'd be happy to."

"That's very good of you," said the woman walking towards the exit. "That awful thing bothers me every time I pass."

Mildred Anne Wulfers Marries Roy F. Georger

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- A center bouquet of white gladioli and altar candles formed the setting Aug. 5 for the wedding of Miss Mildred Anne Wulfers and Roy Francis Georger. The double ring ceremony was performed at St. Mary's Cathedral by the assistant pastor, the Rev. Amel Shibley. The church choir sang, accompanied at the organ by Miss Vicki Maurer.

The former Miss Wulfers is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Wulfers Sr., 725 North Clark, and Georger is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucas Georger of Painton.

Escorted down the white-carpeted aisle by her father, the bride chose for her wedding a slender silhouette gown of Irish linen. Lace accented the empire waist and banded the elbow-length sleeves. The A-line skirt was embrordered with a double row of matching lace and a chapel-length train swept from the waist secured by a self-fabric bow with lace edging the base of the train. A queen's crown of pearlized lilies of the valley and rosettes secured the veil of illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white camellias with white satin ribbon streamers.

Miss Teresa Wulfers, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Mrs. Sharon Scheets of Chaffee was bridesmaid. Their floor-length fitted gowns were of powder blue. The bodice was overlaid with white lace and the crepe skirts were banded at the waist by satin streamers. Their bouffant veils were held by petal clusters and they carried purple asters and white pompon chrysanthemums.

Elmer Georger of Painton served his brother as best man and another brother, Gary Georger of Painton, was groomsman. Ushers were Raymond and George L. Wulfers Jr., brothers of the bride, and Paul and Kenneth Lett, cousins of the bridegroom.

A buffet luncheon was served in the Knights of Columbus Hall following the ceremony. Wedding bells and flowers were placed on the tables and around the wedding cake. Serving the guests were Mrs. Leon Wulfers, Mrs. John Wulfers, Miss Lynn Crafton, Miss Maggie Dohogne and Miss Anna Essner. Mrs. Patricia Masters and Miss Nancy Stone attended the guest book.

The new Mrs. Georger is a junior at Southeast Missouri State College, where she will receive an associate of arts degree in data processing in January. Georger will also graduate in January with a Bachelor of Science degree in physics. Both are employed at St. Francis hospital.

They will make their home in the Pioneer Trailer Court.

Cards Hold 8 1/2 Lead

Hughes Claims 11th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

St. Louis won its third one-run victory over the San Francisco Giants Sunday, 2-1, to retain an 8 1/2 game bulge over streaking runnerup Atlanta in the National League.

The Giants outhit the Cards, 8-5, but St. Louis combined two of those hits, a single and a double with a walk and a sacrifice in the third inning, for both of their runs.

The Cards-Giants game was a brilliant pitching duel between Ray Sadecki and St. Louis rookie Dick Hughes. The third inning walk allowed by Sadecki appears to have been the key to his downfall. It was one of three that he gave up

Hughes didn't walk a man over seven and two-thirds innings and got outstanding backup support from reliever, Joe Hoerner, who allowed only one hit and no walks in finishing up for his 11th victory.

The Giants got their only run in the fourth on Willie McCovey's triple and an infield single by Jim Ray Hart.

Kansas City is idle today. The pressure remains on the Cards as they open a three-game series tonight with the Chicago Cubs, nine games back in third place.

Larry Jaster will start for St. Louis and Ray Culp for the Cubs.

Over in Vietnam, somebody will undoubtedly be glad that Pvt. Ken Holtzman gave a couple of pints of blood last week. Back in Philadelphia, they may wish he wasn't all that civic-minded.

Holtzman, on his first pass from the Army in nearly three months, pitched well enough for 5 1-3 innings for the Chicago Cubs to beat the Phillies 6-2. They took the nightcap, too, 1-0 behind Ferguson Jenkins.

Holtzman, who went into the Army for six months with a 5-0 records on May 20, hopes to make his weekend pitching a regular thing now that he's out of basic training and learning to be a combat medic at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

"I won't know until Friday if I'm going to get a pass," he said. "This weekend I got one by giving two pints of blood. I've got enough left if they say give some more, but I'm not doing it just to get a pass. It goes to Vietnam. I know how much it's needed."

Maybe it was the long layoff or maybe the missing blood, but Holtzman says he began to tire in the fifth and Manager Leo Durocher took the 21-year-old lefty out, though he gave up just four hits, striking out for and walking two.

Bill Stoneman finished up and Ron Santo's 25th homer sparked a three-run fourth inning. Jenkins stopped the Phils on four hits in the second game, winning his 16th game, and Don Kessinger drove in the only run of the game.

In other National League contests Sunday, New York swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 3-0 and 11-9, Cincinnati shut out Los Angeles and Atlanta crushed Houston 8-4.

In the American League, Minnesota edged Chicago 3-2, Detroit nipped Baltimore 3-2, New York outfought Cleveland 15-11, California edged Boston 3-2 and Washington blanked Kansas City 2-0.

Holtzman admitted he "felt a little like a rookie again" when he faced his first major league batter in 85 days, but added, "once I started throwing I had no flutters."

Tom Seaver threw a four-hit shutout in the first game for the Mets, who scored three times in the eighth inning to beat the Pirates. Ed Kranepool's two-out single drove in the only run New York needed.

In the second game, the Pirates took an 8-3 lead into the eighth, but the Mets fought back for five runs on two singles, a sacrifice fly and a force out. Ron Swoboda homered for New York and Willie Stargell and Bob Rodgers connected for the Pirates.

Sammy Ellis made it two shutouts in a row for the Reds over the Dodgers, stopping Los Angeles on three hits. Lee May hit a two-run homer for Cincinnati. Saturday, Milt Pappas blanked the Dodgers on six hits.

Rico Carty, Mack Jones and Hank Aaron hit homers for the Braves who won their fifth consecutive game as the Astros dropped their 10th straight and fell into the National League cellar.

New Madrid County Champs Take Second In 12th Annual Tourney

Poplar Bluff won two games Saturday and claimed the 12th annual Sikeston invitational baseball championship for 11 and 12-year-olds at Puckett field.

Rain Wednesday forced the four-game schedule to be moved from a Friday close to Saturday. Lilbourn took the 2 p.m. contest 7-2 over Cairo and Poplar Bluff claimed the 3:30 p.m. contest, a 4-0 win over the National All-Stars.

Sikeston claimed the third place trophy with a 12-2 win in four innings over Cairo and Poplar Bluff collected seven hits off Grant Dambach for a 8-5 victory.

Dambach was voted the tournament's outstanding player along with Billy Colwick of the National All Stars.

Dambach had an 8 for 14 performances at the plate including two homers and had a no-hit victory along with a three hitter and five-hit win.

Colwick has eight for 12 with a pair of homers and pitched a no-hitter and won another in relief, giving up one hit.

The championship Poplar Bluff squad placed two players on the honorable mention list as move valuable players, Odie Willis and Benny Holt.

Jimmy Warden of Cairo was chosen and Richard LaPlant of the National league Stars.

Bluff used five extra base hits to claim the title, roughing Lilbourn hurler Dambach for his first tournament defeat.

The winners were led by Tom Williams, who hit a homer and a double. Teammate Benny Holt hit a pair of doubles and Bob McDonald a two base hit.

Sikeston claimed third place honors with a 12-2 win over Cairo by issuing three home runs and a double to tally their 12 runs.

Twins Move Into ALLead; White Sox Take 3-2Lump

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Eddie Stanky must have thought it was all a bad dream.

Here was Minnesota tip-toeing away with the American League lead and using a pitch and putt attack more characteristic of Stanky's Chicago White Sox to do it.

So, with first place slowly drifting away, Stanky decided to put up a fight. And all that strategy got him was an early shower. About two outs early.

The Twins were nursing a 3-2 lead built on a Chicago-type rally of two singles, a double steal, an intentional walk, and a force play. When Tommie Agee opened the ninth with a long double, Stanky thought he was back in business.

But Agee, trying to stretch his hit, was thrown out a third on a close play. Stanky rushed umpire Bill Valentine, tossed his cap, jawed nose to nose and was invited to leave early. Two outs later, the rest of the White Sox followed.

The 3-2 victory moved the Twins into the league lead, ½ game in front of Chicago. Detroit, which beat Baltimore 3-2, is third, one game back. California took fourth place, 1½ games behind, by beating Boston 3-2. The Red Sox are fifth, 2½ games out.

In other American League games, New York outslugged Cleveland 15-11 and Washington blanked Kansas City 2-0.

The Twins' victory was their fourth straight and completed an 8-2 home stand. "Now we've got to have a good road trip to make it stick," said Manager Cal Ermer.

Stanky locked the clubhouse door for 30 minutes after the game and wouldn't discuss the play at third base on Agee. "We got beat 3-2," he said, "That's all I've got to say."

The Twins pushed the winning run across in the eighth. Cesar Tovar and Tony Oliva opened with singles and worked the double steal after Harmon Killebrew struck out.

Bob Allison was intentionally walked and then Don Buford deflected Rich Rollins' bouncer to Ron Hansen, who forced Killebrew at second as Tovar scored.

Rollins drove in all three Minnesota runs and Agee homered for the White Sox.

Detroit got a three-run homer from light-hitting Ray Oyler to beat the Orioles. Oyler, batting .206, tagged his first homer of the season in the second inning after Al Kaline doubled and Jim Price walked.

Paul Blair and Curt Blefary touched winner Earl Wilson, 16-9, for homers. Rookie Fred Lasher finished up for the Tigers.

California won its fourth straight, with home runs by Jose Cardenal and Roger Repoz the big blows. Cardenal's inside-the-park shot led off the game for the Angels and Repoz connected against loser Jim Lonborg, 16-6 in the second inning.

Rico Petrocelli had a two-run shot for Boston with two out in the ninth, but Bill Kelso, the third Angel pitcher, came on to get the final out.

Bob Tillman drove in six runs -three on a ninth inning homer- and Horace Clarke and Ruben Amaro smacked four hits apiece as the Yankees beat the Indians. Max Alvis rapped a pair of home runs for Cleveland.

Frank Bertaina pitched a five-hitter as the Senators reached .500 again by beating the Athletics. Rick Monday's second inning error and singles by Bernie Allen and Ed Brinkman, provided all the runs Bertaina needed.

The Senators, in sixth place, are only six games behind the league leading Twins, and how's that for a pennant race?

Opening Football Practice For MSHSAA Member Schools

High school boys from approximately 410 Missouri schools will be beginning football practice for the 1967 season tomorrow, the first permissible practice date under MSHSAA regulations. On this date hundreds of high school boys will be issued football tags and coaches will be checking to make certain that each player has had his physical examination.

Early fall football practice is conducted during the warm and highly humid August weather and the MSHSAA strongly urges high school coaches to take every precaution to prevent athletic injuries. Heat fatigue dulls the athlete's skillful alertness and makes him more vulnerable to injury. Heat exhaustion and heat stroke can result in serious physical harm and even death; both are preventable.

Some of lettermen, will be missing due to participation in the Connie Mack baseball tournament at Lamar, Colo.

The squad will be bolstered by 10 returning lettermen and an abundance of junior high graduates and substitutes.

August 9, 1967

Dear Sir:

My letter concerns the conducting of the rodeo parade on Wednesday evening which for several of our churches is weekly prayer and Bible study.

We have read the various newspaper accounts of the riots and the anarchy which has recently prevailed in some of our cities. And on the home front we well remember reading of the meeting just a few weeks ago in which Mayor Sikes urged the ministers and churches to take a more active part in easing the tensions in and around Sikeston.

With a need for more stability in the moral fiber of our land why must those in charge allow a rodeo parade to rise above the importance of prayer and Bible study in the houses of God? Are the pleas of the political leaders for a "day of prayer" just pious platitudes or are they just plain blasphemous?

It was said of King Uzziah, an ancient King of Israel, that as long as he sought the Lord he was made to prosper. We believe it could also be said of our cities and churches if we made every effort to avoid conflicts with scheduled nights of prayer and Bible study.

Surely, it could help matters if, instead of a parade on Wednesday evenings, the leaders would urge each other to attend places of prayer.

Sincerely,
Glen D. Bohannon, Pastor

Red China Joins Nuclear Club

EDITOR'S NOTE— Unbidden but determined, Red China has become a full-fledged member of the nuclear club. Its pace in atomic weaponry, its politics, and its outlook all suggest profound and ominous consequences for the rest of the world. This is the last of three articles.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
WILLIAM L. RYAN

Soon Red China will have a finger on the button. Will she, by accident or design, launch a nuclear catastrophe?

Fallout effects of China's H-bomb test last June 17 are enormous. The impact on the vast underdeveloped world is incalculable.

For 18 years the United States and the Soviet Union have warily confronted each other with awesome nuclear arsenals but managed to preserve nuclear peace. They know what nuclear war could mean.

China, though still a fledgling member of the nuclear club, vastly alters the peace equation. Caught in the madness of the purge that Mao Tse-tung calls the cultural revolution, she is a puzzling X, perhaps even to herself.

Experts put many worried questions:

— Do Chinese leaders really know what a nuclear war could mean in human casualties and physical destruction?

— Suppose Red China donated a nuclear weapon to an Arab nation, out of a desire to make the Chinese dragon bigger than the Russian bear in the Middle East. Israel, some scientists say, "practically has the basic stuff lying around" to produce weapons in a few years. Might a new Middle East war some day be an atomic one?

— About 20 nations have the capability, some with little or no outside help, of building a nuclear weapon. Will Red China's success put pressure on those governments to produce such weapons?

— Is China really the "crazy, reckless, paranoid country" she appears to be to outsiders, or is her behavior just a passing phenomenon created by Mao's eagerness to shape Chinese into selfless robots?

— Might India and Japan, close enough to feel the hot breath of China's threat, feel impelled now to produce nuclear weapons? Either one can.

Only Japan knows the horrors, first hand, of nuclear weapons. Those used against it were the first A-bombs, enormously destructive but still less powerful than H-bombs.

So deep was the Japanese shock that public opinion violently opposed building such weapons for a Japanese arsenal, and even slowed Japan's development of peaceful atomic power. But now Japan faces a cruel choice: to demand more protection from America— and perhaps from the Soviet Union too— or to gamble that she will not some day be a target of China.

Time has eroded memories of the full terror that the atomic bombs of 22 years ago brought to Hiroshima and Nagasaki. Perhaps more than half the world's population is too young to know much about it. Perhaps, some observers suggest, this fading memory figured in the relative calm with which Asian nations reacted to China's new power. There may be other reasons, too.

Some of the worry among China's neighbors— India, Japan, Burma, Australia, Malaysia, Indonesia— has been eased by the spectacle of Mao's cultural revolution, suggesting vast political, social and economic turmoil in China. Will the strife not eventually slow or even halt China's nuclear program?

It hasn't, up to now, and the chances seem to be that it will not.

Ten years ago some of China's scientists, including those returned from the United States, were caught in a Mao trap: the Hundred Flowers period, when Mao invited open criticism of his regime. The criticism came in a wave, and then Mao cracked down hard on the critics.

But important scientists got off lightly. Mao distrusted those who had been abroad long years, fearing that they had been contaminated by American and other foreign ideas. But Mao also needed them. They were required only to make routine formal confessions. Other intellectuals were forced into corrective labor for re-education.

And in the cultural revolution, Mao's supporters took care to insulate the important scientists. Rule 12 of the Aug. 8, 1966, communique that launched Mao's Red Guards, the storm troopers of political orthodoxy, took care to steer them clear of the scientists.

Still, the cultural revolution damaged China's prestige among underdeveloped nations, as did China's abortive diplomatic offensives in Africa and Asia. Perhaps, some Asians reasoned, China was so badly off balance that it could not risk any deep international trouble.

One top China watcher for the U.S. government speculated that "17 years of political infighting left the Chinese people bone-weary of it all; China watchers believe they are witnessing a change of dynasty. Great revisions may come."

But, if Mao's philosophy wins out, Asians will have to take another look.

Few doubt that China eventually will be the dominant power in Asia. It has the resources, and energetic, clever people. The ifs involve China's problems of food, population, education, training, industrialization, advances in science other than in the nuclear field, and, most of all, solving the present political chaos.

So far China has avoided direct involvement in Vietnam. China wants to give no excuse for an obliterative attack on her new nuclear installations.

But whatever happens, China is going to be a major problem, for both the United States and the Soviet Union.

In direct military threat, the United States seems to have little to fear from China until the mid-1970s.

For the United States, various experts agree, one consequence of China's nuclear march will be increased pressure to develop antiballistic missiles to intercept and destroy any incoming enemy missiles. The ABM cost to taxpayers could range anywhere from $4 billion to $70 billion, perhaps just as a starter, for limited defenses.

"It is no longer a question of whether to have them, but when," declares Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., long a member of military and atomic energy committees. Others argue that ABMs will trigger a spiral in the arms race, forcing the Soviet Union to strengthen its striking force or expand its own ABMs.

Arguing against extensive ABM efforts now, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara says that probably "all we would accomplish would be to increase greatly both their defense expenditures and ours, without any gain in real security to either side."

Practical testing of ABMs could violate the limited nuclear treaty which bans atmospheric testing.

Chinese bombs affect Soviet thinking, too. A ban on ABM systems must be considered among "the whole range of questions relating to arms and disarmament," said Premier Alexei N. Kosygin just after China exploded her H-bomb.

China is an infuriating problem to Moscow. China's rulers claim to be the true Communists and denounce the Communist parties in the Soviet Union and elsewhere as "revisionist" betrayers of world revolution. China's feud with Moscow, aggravated by Peking's eagerness for nuclear arms, has ripped the fabric of world Communist unity to shreds.

Peking, calling the Soviet Union its enemy, has laid claim to 600,000 square miles of Soviet territory. The Chinese, with increasing frequency, stir up trouble on Soviet borders. Moscow pumps inflammatory propaganda into Chinese border provinces populated predominantly by non-Chinese people.

Since 1960, there has been no Soviet scientific help for China. But the experts say China still can spring surprises.

She can develop long-range rockets, they say, by brute engineering. A missile good enough to hit within five miles of an intended target could wipe out Moscow or Leningrad, or Los Angeles or San Francisco. But China, with her vast territory and primarily agrarian population, offers fewer strategic targets. Missiles aimed at China would have to pinpoint missile sites.

In any case, America's China policy is up for re-examination. The average American, looking at the situation, feels helpless, but there are glimpses of optimism.

"It's been a dangerous world for a long time," Sen. Jackson remarks. "But the cataclysmic nature of nuclear warfare has to be a restraining influence. It means destroying mankind. Nuclear weapons carry an enormous responsibility. Failure to understand the nature of nuclear war means annihilation."

He and others point out that the U.S.S.R. modified its stance as it grew more powerful, as its living standards rose, and it had more to lose from holocaust.

In the long view, says an authority on China, advances in technology and science and in satellite communications will tend to knit nations closer together. Nations cooperating with these advances know they can progress faster than nations which try to go it alone. Thus, there may be "a suction on China to join in on this."

Some hope the future will see a wearing down of "hard corners of truth," the beliefs that one country or one group has the absolute truth which others must accept.

Bells, Clock Installed In Churchill Memorial

FULTON - Five bronze bells from Holland are being installed in a tower of the Winston Churchill memorial at Westminster college.

A large four-faced clock, made to the specifications of the clock destroyed by a German air raid in World War II, will be installed in the spire of the seventeenth centure church, now in its final months of restoration.

The great bells, the clock and the tower are the gift of Mrs. V. H. McNutt as a memorial to the late Missouri physician, Dr. W. B. A. McNutt, as alumnus of Westminster College.

The bells were cast at the 300-year-old foundry of Petit & Fritzen of Aarle-Rixtel, Holland and special strikers and electrical equipment was supplied by the I. T. Verdin Company of Cincinnati.

The largest bell weighs 1,408 pounds and they range down to 290 pounds.

When the exterior scaffolding is removed from the tower the church, which is the focal point of the Memorial, will look virtually completed on the exterior. Interior plastering has been completed, but woodpaneling and painting will take several months.

Twenty-one years have passed since Winston Churchill journeyed to the campus of Westminster College for his historic address on the "Sinews of Peace." There he delivered his prophetic warning against an ominous turn in the foreign policy of the Soviet Union. There, for the first time, the phrase "Iron Curtain" was spoken.

Since the twelfth century a Church of St. Mary Aldermanbury has rested on a corner of the wall which defended the Old City of London in Roman times. There, in 1656, poet John Milton was married. William Shakespeare lived only a few streets away. His fellow actors, John Heminge and Henry Condell, who published his "First Folio," were active church wardens.

The Great Fire of 1966 destroyed the Old City, Sir Christopher Wren, was commissioned to reconstruct St. Mary Aldermanbury. Under his direct supervision, the church was completely rebuild using the original medieval materials for the interior walls and limestone for the exterior. In the blitz of London in 1941, it was again damaged, this time by a Nazi incendiary bomb.

The church had been destined for destruction, since it no longer served a parish--vast industrial and commercial developments had altered the surrounding neighborhood. Yet this shell of a church, still preserving the distinctive grace of Wren's design, will survive as a tribute to his genius; as a visible testimony to the days when Britain and her people stood alone against the forces of tyranny; as a symbol of the heroic resistance led by war-time Prime Minister -- Winston Churchill.

Movie Prices In London Jolt Tourists

LONDON (AP) — Notes from swinging London. The gambling casino is still advertised as George Raft's Colony, even though its onetime host is barred from Britain as undesirable. The Beverly Hillbillies are filming background shots all around London town. Another arrival is Red Skelton, here for segments with a symphony orchestra playing his compositions.

American tourists, accustomed to free movies on cross-country flights, are jolted by the $2.50 charge across the Atlantic. Seen in the Hotel Dorchester lobby: Sean Connery with long hair for a Western he plans to film in Mexico. Ray Milland arrived to direct an English movie.

Deborah Kerr recovered from an ear ailment and rejoined the cast of "Prudence and the Pill." Rare theater experience: watching Sir Ralph Richardson romp through "The Rivals" at the Haymarket. Isobel Jeans has replaced Margaret Rutherford in the play—the Academy Award winner became unable to remember the malaprops.

Spotted in a cozy corner of L'Etoile restaurant: Hayley Mills and her 53-year-old director-boyfriend, Roy Boulting. "Fiddler on the Roof" is a big hit at Her Majesty's theater, and some say Israeli comic Topol is the best to play the leading role yet.

Their associates suspect the Beatles will never get together on another movie. The Monkees have made a dent in England, but mostly with the subteen set. Explicit sign on a movie stage: "You must enter the stage quietly—do not let the door bang." Agatha Christie's "The Mousetrap" is being advertised in its "15th unashamed year" at the Ambassadors Theater.

BBC has begun experimenting with color prior to its official start of color programming Dec. 2. Color sets are scarce, and they cost about $800 to buy or $5.60 per week rental. There are an estimated 1,000 sets in England today.

Britons Bid For Musical Film Toehold

LONDON (AP) — The English film industry is tuning up for competition in the musical film, which traditionally has been a Hollywood monopoly.

America's pre-eminence in the musical is being threatened by three major projects which will test whether England can match Hollywood's skill in this art form. The first was "Half a Sixpence," starring Tommy Steele and a British cast and directed by an American, George Sidney—"Anchors Aweigh," "Pepe".

"Half a Sixpence" ran into problems that extended the schedule to six months. But Paramount is high on its chances and has planned a roads how release. Two new musical projects recently have started shooting in studios outside London. One is Columbia's "Oliver" based on the London and Broadway hit taken from Dickens' "Oliver Twist." The other is United Artists' "Chitty Chitty Bang Bang," from the Ian Fleming story for children.

"Oliver" is being directed at Shepperton Studio by Carol Reed. He is a curious choice for a musical, having specialized in dramas—"The Third Man," "The Fallen Idol".

"But I did direct a few musicals starring Jessie Matthews before the war," he said. Except for minor musicals starring Miss Matthews and Anna Neagle, England has produced few tunefilms over the years.

Reed was asked why.

"It has been largely a matter of economics," he explained.

"Musicals are very expensive to make. They require large staffs, long rehearsals and pre-recording sessions before the picture begins. We simply couldn't afford to lavish the money."

American money has solved that problem. Columbia will spend an estimated $14 million on "Oliver" which stars Ron Moody, Shani Wallis, Harry Secombe and Hugh Griffith.

"Chitty Chitty Bang Bang" is budgeted for $28 million, and United Artists appears hopeful that it will be another "Mary Poppins." The new film also boasts the services of Dick Van Dyke as star and the Sherman brothers as song writers.

Producers of British-made films are rebated part of their costs from a fund supported by theater admission taxes. Brocoli said the government and the unions allowed him to hire American musical personnel above the usual quota.

"The authorities wanted a break-through for the musical film in England, and so they gave us certain concessions," the producer reported.

FINDING THE WAY

Only a Larger Brotherhood Can Curb Mankind's Ills

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

I have three brothers and the four of us enjoy the infrequent reunions when we can recount the escapades of growing up. Scattered in various parts of the country, we try to find at least an annual moment when we can see each other. Why should anyone think it extraordinary if four brothers enjoy seeing one another and sharing their experiences? Why praise brothers for being brothers?

In the city in which I live eight pastors—Protestant, Roman Catholic, Orthodox and Jewish—have been meeting, sharing a fellowship and sponsoring a whole host of interfaith activities. People watching, frequently comment on the excellence of this fellowship, as though it were necessary to praise brothers for being brothers.

This is the illustration of the danger now being confronted by the bold ecumenical movement. When Pope John threw open the windows for fresh breezes to course through the Christian world, it was possible for that which had been only a Protestant fellowship to become a more truly ecumenical brotherhood. What has happened in recent years has erupted with revolutionary swiftness and encouraging climax.

Just here is the danger. Our problem is that we shall settle for respectability, with just being nice to one another as an ultimate goal instead of a preliminary step. The work we are sent to do is to witness in the world where the problems are tougher than ever.

List some of the dangers confronting mankind and they add up to the presence of war, the loss of coexistence between nations, a growing gulf between the "haves" and the "have-nots," the horrible poverty among so many peoples and the unabated trend toward overpopulation. Add to these confusing and threatening problems, the indifference and the amoral selfishness and the broad outlines of some of mankind's most fearful problems are indicated.

It's a time to tackle these with imagination, with risk and with bravery. The critics of the churches have been saying that not enough of us are willing to do this. And they may be right. Certainly, we will not solve problems by shying away from them. As brothers we are meant to recognize a larger brotherhood.

It's a time to accept brotherhood as natural and then be disturbed enough by what we see around us to work together to meet the needs and yearnings of mankind. Ecumenical brotherhood is only a necessary step in the right direction.

That is best achieved by a common witness that doesn't settle for a private fellowship but struggles together for the larger familyhood.

Beaird Comes to Aid of Forrestal

USS INTREPID -- Navy Airman Winford L. Beaird, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell A. Beaird of 1013 Applegate St., Sikeston, Mo., was a crew member aboard the anti-submarine warfare support aircraft carrier USS Intrepid when the ship went to the aid of the carrier USS Forrestal.

The Forrestal, operating on station in the Gulf of Tonkin, was damaged when a fuel tank on a plane, preparing to take off, dropped, spewing burning gasoline on the flight and hangar decks.

The fire resulted in many secondary explosions from burning bombs and missiles.

Helicopters from the Intrepid transported men and supplies to the Forrestal to aid the stricken ship and its crew in combating the fire.

Music to Read by

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)— The library whisper and the quiet clap of closing books may soon give way to the sound of soft music in a Pennsylvania State University library.

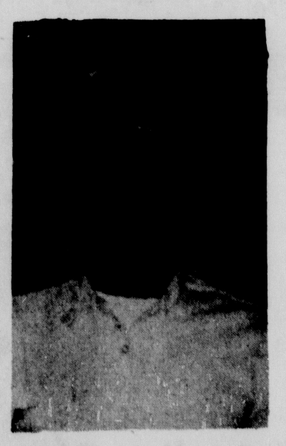

School officials are installing a sound system to pipe tape recorded music into selected areas of the undergraduate wing of Pattee Library. The system should be ready when the fall term begins next month.

The music is a selection of popular show tunes and light classics, specially scored to be unobtrusive by eliminating peaks of high or low notes. The idea is to overcome distracting noise.

WHERE DO YOU BUY A WATER WELL?

How do you go about "buying a well?"

This question isn't as quaint as it sounds. About one-fourth of the American people or 10 million families depend entirely upon individual wells for their water. They live on farms, in the suburbs and in rural nonfarm areas beyond municipal water mains.

But they're not the only ones who might be interested in buying a well, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau points out. At least 50,000 wells are drilled each year to provide SUPPLEMENTARY water in areas where use of municipal water is curtailed during drought.

The modern water well is more properly called an "individual water system." The pump has an electric motor and, in home installations, is likely to be put in the well, where you can't see or hear it. The well itself is seldom over four inches in diameter. The water is pumped into a storage tank. From there, it's piped to the various appliances in the house. Controls regulate the pump, which goes on and off automatically when water in the tank reaches a predetermined level.

The modern well thus is really a complete water system in miniature. To "buy" one, you have to go to a licensed man who knows local codes, water tables and other geological facts and who qualifies as an installation expert. He may operate under the name of well driller, water system specialist or as a plumbing contractor who also specializes in water systems.

If you'd like more information about home water systems, send 15 cents in coin to the Ground Water Resources Institute, 205 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. 60606. Ask for 'How Water Wells Can Help You Solve Your Water Problems -- Easily and Economically!"

WARNER BROS. PAYS $1,000,000-PLUS

The nation's #1 bestselling novel, "The Arrangement," slated to be an Avon paperback in 1968, will become a Warner Bros. motion picture, produced and directed by the author, Elia Kazan. Warner Bros. will pay the Academy Award winning director $500,000 for screen rights, $500,000 to produce and direct the movie, and up to 50% of the film's profits -- making "The Arrangement" one of the highest priced purchases in film history.

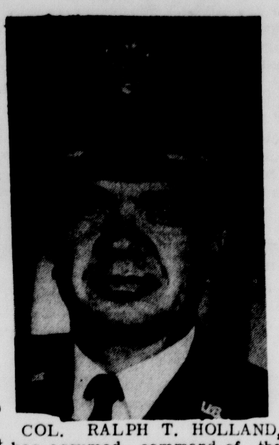

"The Arrangement," Mr. Kazan's first novel, was published by Stein and Day in February, 1967, and was selected then by the Literary Guild. On publication, the book immediately climbed to the top of all bestseller lists where it still remains after eighteen weeks. Avon Books had purchased reprint rights to "The Arrangement" two months before publication and first scheduled the paperback release for early Spring, 1968; but, because of the immediate success and the still strong sales of the hardcover edition, Avon will delay publication until late Spring or later in 1968. The release date of the movie is also still to be announced.

HERE'S HELP ON HOME PLUMBINGCARE

Planning to make some repairs around the house this summer? A booklet titled "Plumbing Care & Repair" tells you how to keep your plumbing in good working condition, how to make certain repairs yourself, and what jobs should be left strictly to qualified plumbing contractors. It's available for 25 cents from the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, 35 E. Wacker Dr., Chicago 60601.

ENTERTAINMENT SINK ENHANCES OUTDOOR LIVING

If you're planning a backyard patio for outdoor relaxation and informal entertaining, why not include a sink with hot and cold water and a drinking fountain, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. They will make both entertaining and cleanup easier. The fountain will keep children from running in and out of the kitchen all day for drinks of water.

COL. RALPH T. HOLLAND, has assumed command of the 42nd air division, Blytheville Air Force Base, Ark. He replaces Brig. Gen. Roger L. Hicks, Jr., who has been reassigned as commander of the fourth strategic aerospace division, Grand Forks AFB, N.D.

Figures and heads that adorned the prows of sailing ships were probably the first known form of Early American sculpture. As the use of sailing ships declined, these artisans turned to sculpting cigar store Indians. Early American sculpture can be viewed at the Harold Warp Pioneer Village in south central Nebraska.

maximum, sensible cooperation between them achieves most benefit for all; to eliminate all present or future fear and insure the rebirth of our own self-respect and freedoms, we hereby declare the causes that impel us to action.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, the right to honest work wherever, whenever and for whom they please, without any restrictions or compulsory demands or dictates of any kind or nature, and the pursuit of happiness free from coercions and fears of withheld work, bodily harm to self and loved ones, and destruction of homes or other property.

That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the CONSENT OF THE GOVERNED.

That unions in our America have come into being and grown like Topsy, without constitutional law laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form as to them (union members) shall seem most likely to effect their freedom, safety and happiness.

All experience hath shewn that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But, when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty to throw off such yoke and to provide new guards for their future security.

We therefore, the union members of each and every one of our fifty states, do hereby petition to all United States senators and representatives of both parties for our respective states and signed hereby for our first approval, and after so approved by the majority of us, be processed into the law of our land for our protection and the best interests of all segments of our society, which interwoven together will insure our future freedoms:

1. Provide for the election of all union officers by free and secret ballots. Provide for dues assessments and expenditures only by free and secret ballots.

2. Provide for effective recall and ouster proceedings for officers who misuse their powers.

3. Provide for fiduciary restraints upon union pensions and any and all other union funds as exacting as those set upon bankers and any other managers of other peoples' money, with insurance bonds to cover any defalcations.

4. Provide for annual audits and full public knowledge of all receipts and expenditures. We (the union members) are a large segment of the public and never-more want to be shocked or ashamed of what is done with our savings and money in any funds.

5. Provide heavy penalties against anyone or more who are convicted of threatening, coercing or harming the person or any relative of any union member of damaging in any way any of his personal or real property.

6. Realizing the terrific job of truly democratizing our unions in the mess too many of us, the degradation and frustration of being cowed and afraid, we request that there be included in our news laws a federal right-to-work chapter, forbiding compulsory membership in any union. The vast majority of us will choose and join the unions of our choice in the areas where we work and where we are satisfied. We do not ever want to be forced into any union foreign to our knowlege or control. We want our inalienable right and freedom to join or not to join the local unions where we work or any other union anywhere.

7. Last, but not least, include anti-trust provisions restricting any and all union officials from negating any of the foregoing, and positivie elimination of all powers to stop, close or in any way tie up plants, industries, transportation or public facilities nationwide or over large areas of our country, which cost our union workers billions of lost dollars and can prostrate our America and make it a sitting duck for any sneak attack by an ambitious Russia.

Ann Landers

Children Lucky to Have Affectionate Fathers

Dear Ann Landers: Tears filled my eyes when I read the letter from the 16-year-old girl who complained because her father hugged and kissed her too much. She said it was embarrassing.

That girl doesn't know how lucky she is. I would have given anything if my father had kissed me even once a month. I really shouldn't blame him too much because he was almost 35 when he married Mom and he didn't know how to show affection to small children, although he had four of his own. Dad died three years ago. I was 15. I cherish the memory of the few hello and good-bye kisses he did give me.

I hope every father who reads this letter will ask himself when was the last time he kissed his children -- yes, boys, too. They need affection as much as girls. There isn't enough love in the world today, and the place to learn how to give and receive love is at home. --- RALEIGH MISS.

Dear Miss: You are unusually wise and perceptive for an 18-year-old. And you have a forgiving heart, too, which is good. I hope the fathers in my reading audience will take inventory. Was Miss Raleigh speaking to you?

Dear Ann Landers: My husband sold his business a few years ago and retired. We are not wealthy, but we have a nice income from past investments, plus Social Security.

I have always handled the money in the family. My husband doesn't know what it is to pay a bill. I also helped him in his business and paid the company bills as well.

Now that we are entering our golden years we should be relaxed, but we aren't. My husband is driving me crazy because I am not able to save any money. He keeps asking, "Where does it all go?"

I have tried to explain that the cost of living has gone up, taxes are up, club memberships are up, and we can't drive a car free.

We have not touched our principal. We live on interest and Social Security, but he still hollers, "Everyone should save something." Will you please give him an answer? --- TIRED IN TOLEDO

Dear Tired: He doesn't want an answer. He'd rather holler. It's probably his best form of recreation since he retired.

Start next month to keep an itemized account of every dime you spend. When he starts yelling, hand him the list. That should settle his hash.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 16-year-old boy who may be killed by his mother one of these days. I know she would never forgive herself, but I'd be dead just the same.

It is my job to empty the wastebaskets and the trash. My mother is always throwing aerosol cans into the wastebaskets. When I burn the trash the cans explode. Sometimes two or three cans explode in a row, and it shounds like a sonic boom.

I have read of people getting killed by these things and I don't want it to happen to me. I've told my mother three times to please keep the aerosol cans out of the wastebaskets, but she forgets. What can I do? SHOCKED

Dear Shocked: You can stop depending on your mother and sort out the trash yourself, Bub.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The Prayer
From
The Upper Room

One thing I have desired of the Lord, that will I seek after; that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life. (Psalm 27:4)

PRAYER: God, our Father, we pray Thee to fulfill the prayer of Thy Son: that we may not be taken out of the world but be kept from evil, and that we may behold my glory. We pray in His name. Amen.

If You Were the Judge

Man, Who Thought He Could Fly, Collects

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

Marty, "vacationing" at a mental hospital, got out on a third story window ledge and put a wet finger up to test the wind currents. Then, flapping his arms, he jumped. To Marty's surprise, he discovered he couldn't fly. And, while he wasn't hurt by the fall, the sudden stop on landing nearly killed him. In due course, he sued the hospital for his damaged fusilage.

"They should have kept an eye on me," he complained to the judge. "They knew I was nuts."

"We did the best we could," was the hospital's defense. "But, Marty sneaked into another patient's room and took off from there. While he was deluded, we were eluded."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the hospital pay for Marty's crash landing?

This is how the judge ruled: Marty collected. The judge held that while a hospital does not insure the safety of its patients, it must exercise reasonable care to safeguard a patient from dangers due to a mental incapacity. In this case, concluded the judge, Marty should have been kept under a more weathered eye.

Letters to the Editor

EDITOR BLANTON
A MESSAGE
TO UNION WORKERS

These thoughts are addressed to our millions of working men and women who, as a whole, represent one of our finest segments of American citizens.

The vast majority would give their lives to protect America, their homes and loved ones in any war threatening our freedoms. Here are millions of our folks who together can increase their effectiveness a thousandfold in a comparatively short freedoms and insure the enjoyment of same by our children and grandchildren.

History is jammed with names of men, groups of men, parties and coalitions, all imbued with unholy ambition to control as many people as possible and enjoy therefrom the power, prestige and material wealth wrung from the toil, sweat, tears, suffering and frustration of the many. History is repeating itself in America, and we have allowed control over us to reach an all-time high.

Why, oh why, must men and women, especially in our enlightened America, become so satisfied with our luxurious living that we forget to THINK, to ACT for ourselves and, by pure forefeiture to unscrupulous and power-hungry pied pipers, gradually lose our freedoms?

Our country is still supposed to be a government "of the people, by the people and for the people." In proportion to our (the people's) apathy, laziness and do-nothing attitudes to keep our freedoms, we are gradually losing our control to bureaucratic minorities.

Now, why do I elaborate so much about these thoughts in a chapter on union workers? It is because the time is long past due for union workers to draft their own Declaration of Independence, Constitution, and Bill of Rights. Until they do, they will never enjoy UNIONS OF THE MEMBERS, by the members and for the members. It will be a job for the majority of union workers and all of them will have to change from lethargic apathy and, in some areas, fear, to militant fighters. For too long union members have allowed the mushrooming of bureaucratic and, in many instances, mob control to gain a stronger and stronger stranglehold over their lives and those of their families.

Of course we know that there are good unions, staffed by patriotic, honest, efficient men, working tirelessly for the members of their unions. The big reward these men enjoy is the good they can do for others. They are not interested in Napoleonic power or materialistic gains at the expense of their union members. They know too that the labor unions are just one segment of our society, and that cooperative meshing with other segments secures more benefits, present and future, for their members and America as a whole.

However, we can never forget that there are always unscrupulous, ambitious men scheming and planning to control the masses.

Our Founding Fathers knew this only too well. That is why they drafted our Constitution with to the maximum, protect us from future ambitious tyrants.

There never was a better time or climate to incorporate into the laws of our land a Constitution for Union Members. It is just as necessary, as were our Anti-Trust Laws of years ago, to curb and hold down excesses of power in the employer segment of our society.

Let us pattern our Union Members' Declaration of Independence from that of our United States.

When in the course of time it becomes necessary for a large segment of a free people to throw off the increasing bonds of increasing, unscrupulous, controlling minorities; to fully democratize our segment of society and insure future free democracy; to bring back a decent respect for the other segments of the society of our great America, with renewed understanding that each and every segment of our society is dependent upon each other, and

There are only two pathways-only two steps for those millions of fine Americans (our union workers) to select.

First, do nothing - coast - do everything your uncontrolled leaders tell you to do - vote for those uncontrolled congressmen they recommend, thereby speeding the date of our total control under an ISM government from which dwindling purchasing power, handouts and doles to all of us will be gall and hell on earth.

Or, second, by the millions decide to throw off your yoke of servitude to uncontrolled leaders, demand from Congress your own Constitution, select and elect leaders who should and will be your servants, vote your own choice of congressmen whom you think best for America. Get control of your union destiny back in your grasp, and cooperate with all other segments of our society, which have also forfeited so much of their freedom, so that all of us, united, will have the best chance-maybe our last chance - of saving our Republic - our America.

It is up to the union members (the people). Let everything slide down the road toward more and more loss of your freedoms, or cooperatively, by millions, petition all national senators and representatives in your respective states under your Declaration of Independence and request that your Union Constitution be written into the law of our land.

1. Jimmie was a shy little kid when he started out as a newspaperboy. He didn't have much "get up and go". In fact, he was even a little afraid of meeting and talking to folks on his route.

2. Within a couple of weeks, Jimmie got over some of his bashfulness. He enjoyed chatting with customers when making collections. He's learned the value of money from first-hand experience.

We watched Jimmie grow!

3. In competition with other boys, Jimmie is finding out how to "sell" and conduct a business of his own. He wins extra rewards. He makes greater route profits. He even carries his own insurance.

4. Jimmie has developed into the kind of boy you like to meet. And, he is continuing to learn principles that will pay big dividends in later years.

THIS IS AN ARCHITECT'S DRAWING of the First General Baptist church. Ground breaking ceremonies were held Sunday.

TURNING THE FIRST spade for the new First General Baptist church building to be erected on Kennedy and Winter Drive was its pastor, the Rev. Robert I. Jones.

Ground Broken for New Baptist Church

Ground breaking for the First General Baptist church brought out more than 150 Sunday at 3 p.m. for a 30-minute ceremony at the corner of Kennedy and Winter Drive in Collins North Acres.

The pastor, the Rev. Robert I. Jones, presided.

Construction on the $110,000 church will get underway immediately. Completion is scheduled in six months. Investment Builders of Lubbock, Tex., have the contract.

The colonial type structure will face south on Kennedy and be an L-shape building. The auditorium will seat 388. There will be an educational plant of 22 classrooms, library, kitchen, pastor's study, office and two nurseries. The building will be air conditioned.

The church has grown from ten on organization July 17, 1938, to 191.

First services were held in an abondoned store building on Smith Avenue. In 1950 a new building was erected on Smith Avenue.

The lot for the new church was purchased two years ago. Six pastors have served the church, the Revs. J. N. Warren, T. H. Kindred, Arthur Johnson, Roy Stanfill, Hershel Asa, and the Rev. Mr. Jones, who has served since 1954.

The building committe is composed of Bill Ryan Sr., Warren Harber, J. D. Harper, J. D. Mitchell and the Rev. Mr. Jones.

Other church officers are, Ryan, Sunday School superintendent; Harper, church treasurer; Duke, music director; Jerry Wilson, president of men's brotherhood.

Andrews Convicted Of Lying

Guilty on three of five perjury counts, the Criminal Dist. Court jury decided at 1:30 a.m., after deliberating two hours and 40 minutes.

"I really shouldn't complain," said Andrews with a heavy sign moments before he was hustled off to jail. "If I didn't have bad luck, I wouldn't have any at all."

Defense attorney Harry Burglass immediately announced an appeal will be filed on many points of law.

Judge Frank J. Shea did not set a date for sentencing.

Burglass said Andrews, 44, will not be eligible for bond until he has been sentenced. Maximum sentence would be five years.

The case went to the jury before midnight after marathon debate for five days and included a Sunday session - so unusual the judge had to check the lawbooks to see if it was legal.

The trial was before a five-man jury because the charge of perjury is a misdemeanor under Louisiana law. Twelve-member juries are reserved for felony cases.

In final arguments, the state accused Andrews of trying "to play games" with the Orleans Parish grand jury which is probing an alleged assassination plot.

The prosecution said Andrews wound up trapped in lies.

On the contrary, said Burglass, what the state truly indicated to Andrews was: "Tell us what we want to hear, Dean, and then it's all right."

Five counts of perjury against Andrews, a lawyer who once advised Lee Harvey Oswald on minor legal matters, were filed primarily because he said he could not identify Clay L. Shaw as the mysterious Clay Bertrand.

Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison contends that Shaw, 54, a wealthy New Orleans businessman, used "Bertrand" as an alias to plot the murder of Kennedy.

The defense rested its case after playing a voice tape of Andres' replies to state interrogation before the grand jury March 16.

"He told them the truth," said Burglass. "But he's got a jivey way of doing it. He told them Clay Shaw was not Clay Bertrand, but they said he lied.

"Most of us live humdrum lives. But something exciting happened to Dean - Bertrand. Up until that time, he didn't have an enemy in the world. He was on TV, he was here, he was there. He got swirled up into something a lot bigger than anything he had ever dreamed."

A desire for attention, said Asst. Dist. Atty. James Alcock, is not an excuse for lying to the grand jury trying to determine whether there was a conspiracy to kill a president.

Alcock stressed that Andrews, at his second grand jury appearance, identified Bertrand as Eugene Davis, a French Quarter bar owner - and when asked why he hadn't said so before, replied:

"So I lied. So I committed perjury. I don't know what I said."

Fliers Repeat Strikes

SAIGON (AP) -- U.S. warplanes struck for the second straight day today at North Vietnamese targets just 10 miles from Red China's border, along the major railroad from China to Hanoi.

The attacks Sunday and today were closer to the Chinese border than any previous air raids in the Vietnam war.

Navy A6 Intruders and A4 Skyhawks from the carrier Constellation in the Tonkin Gulf raked the Lang Son railroad bypass bridge 63 miles north of Haiphong. Pilots reported dropping the southern span of the 360-foot, four-span structure.

A U.S. military spokesman said the bridge is half a mile east of the Lang Son railroad and highway bridge which was knocked out in raids near the Chinese border Sunday.

The Navy said the bridge was one of two bypass bridges being built by the North Vietnamese at Lang Son to link with the major rail line.

Other Navy pilots from the Constellation hammered a rail siding south of Lang Son and pilots said they cut the tracks in several places.

The pilots reported they encountered only light antiaircraft fire.

No planes were reported lost in the latest raids, but the U.S. Command announced that in Saturday's 151 attacks on the North, an F105 Thunderchief and an RF4C reconnaissance plane were shot down by ground fire. All three crewmen were listed as missing.

This brought to 641 the total of announced U.S. warplane losses over North Vietnam.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Rep. Thaddeus J. Dulski, New York Democrat, is sharper than his name implies.

The third ranking member of his party on the House post office committee, pocketed a $11,000 profit from a testimonial dinner in his honor in September a la Senator Thomas Dodd of Connecticut.

There were 400 guests at the $50-a-plate dinner in Buffalo. Present were leaders of postal unions, lobbyists and big volume mailers.

What will the guests receive in return?

If future performance corresponds to recent history, the postal workers will get an increase in pay and greater fringe benefits.

The rates of junk mail users will be held at comparatively low levels so that the number of these box stuffers will increase above present levels amidst loud complaints from the general public.

What will the general public, the newspapers, the magazines and other mail users get from it?

Higher postage rates.

All this at a time when the life of some newspapers is threatened by the squeeze of soaring operating costs in which outrageous feather bedding demands, exhorbitant wage demands of unions, prohibition of increased efficiency and economy by automation, and higher postage rates are factors.

The welfare of the nation's magazines is sad to behold. General circulation magazines put out issues that are lean on advertising. Higher postal rates on these anemic publications will contribute to their early death despite the worthwhile contribution they make to society.

CALLANAN-LAWLER THROWN FOR LOSS

Reversing its earlier decision to set St. Louis steamfitter wages in Jefferson City and central Missouri, the Missouri Industrial Commission has partially made up for this bungle that could have cost taxpayers millions of dollars.

It also has belatedly slammed the door in the faces of power - hungry Lawrence Callanan and John L. Lawler, steamfitter bosses, who sought to take over the Jeff City and mid-state area for their Local 562.

The commission earlier this year astonished Missourians by setting St. Louis Local 562's pay scales as the "prevailing rates" in Jefferson City and in the mid-state area. This was $2.12 1/2 above wage rates being paid by contractors on private projects in Jefferson City under their agreement with the steamfitter local there.

Commission chairman James J. Butler contended at that time the higher St. Louis fitter rate was actually the prevailing scale because of the large number of Local 562 workers employed in construction of a $5,500,000 private plant at Jeff City.

Now Mr. Butler says the number of steamfitters being paid at St. Louis Local 562 rates has diminished to the point where they are outnumbered by those receiving the lower pay of the Jeff City local. Thus, he says, the prevailing rate now is that provided by the city's steamfitter - contractor agreement.

Missouri taxpayers thus will be spared a multi-million dollar gouging.

Mr. Butler's explanation for the commission's reversal sounds as fishy as the previous attempt to justify the much higher Local 562 pay in Jeff City.

What seems apparent is that this raw deal to Missouri taxpayers - first revealed by The Globe - Democrat - couldn't stand the light of day. Gov. Warren Hearnes understandably ordered another review of this commission ruling.

Hopefully there will be no more decisions that favor labor bosses such as Gallanan and Lawler, over the state's taxpayers.

Unit train service has kept coal -by-train competitive with mine-mouth power plants -- where the utility builds its plants near a coal supply and transmits electric energy via high voltage lines -- and with coal slurry pipelines.

HANDCUFFING THE POLICE

The United States has long prided itself on the protection afforded citizens by the fine and dedicated police departments in this country. But there is increasing evidence that policemen are being hindered in their work by new and supposedly progressive ideas that prevent the policeman from performing his primary duty: the protection of the life, liberty, and property of the innocent.

In Los Angeles, official police department policy instructs the policeman to become a "street - corner sociologist." Obviously, if a policeman must stop to psychoanalyze the lawbreaker, his effectiveness as a law - enforcer will be sharply curtailed. A policeman who does his job well need not worry about community relations. The innocent will respect him, and the guilty will be deterred from criminal behavior.

In addition, recent Supreme Court decisions, such as the Miranda case, also stand in the way of effective law enforcement. These decisions curtail the police in the interrogation of suspects and the obtaining of confessions. Rather than protecting the innocent as their supporters say, these decisions actually serve to protect the guilty.

Baltimore's state attorney announced recently that at least 72 self-confessed criminals, including murderers, had been released on the basis of the Miranda case.

A three - year - F.B.I. study of 167,000 offenders has indicated that emphasis on community relations and legal technicalities has limited the effectiveness of the police and allowed many criminals to go free.

Those who are innocent have nothing to fear when the law is enforced objectively and competently. The community has a great deal to fear when police are prevented from doing their jobs. H.L.H.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Romney Charges 'Great Society' Doesn't Trust American Consumers

There is a domestic front. Not all the issues of the coming presidential battle will be international, or of war and peace, or of Vietnam. Thus, the other day I turned to Republican front runner, Gov. George Romney, and asked what he believed would be the most critical problems "stateside."

Mr. Romney lashed at government intervention in the private lives of the citizenry, and controls on labor and management. Labor, he charged, now is becoming monopolistic with the aid of federal statutes.

Here, in his own words, is the definitive statement of the beliefs of a leading contender for the Republican presidential monination:

By George Romney
Governor of Michigan

Lansing: -- The great political economist Henry L. Simons once observed that there are only two ways to discipline an economy: By competition or by absolute authority.

Historically, America chose competition.

Through competition, we have given the customer ultimate power to regulate the economy, through his own free choices in the market place -- just as he has the ultimate power to control his government, through his free choices at the ballot box.

Competing enterprises bid freely and fiercely for the favor of the customer. The producer prospers or dies at the will of the customer. And the customer reaps the principal benefits of economic progress.

Consumer sovereignty in a free market has made the American economy the envy of the world.

But consumer sovereignty faces grave challenges today. One comes from the diminishing faith in our competitive enterprise system, fed by the theories of the advocates of a planned society.

One of The Great Society's most renowned economic prophets recently wrote: "Everyone, including all economists, agrees on consumer sovereignty in principle, but no one wants to trust it in practice."

This economist and much of The Great Society clearly demonstrate that they don't trust the American customer. The trust of their argument is that industry, not the customer, controls and manages demand, telling the customer what he wants or should have, and managing the customer's life.

I thoroughly disagree. I trust the customer. Trust in the customer was the basis for the recovery program at American Motors ten years ago, when I was its president.

I believe that consumer sovereignty is the keystone to our competitive enterprise system. If we are to continue to progress as a nation, consumer sovereignty must be protected and strengthened at all costs. But if The Great Society economic planner are right, and if industry is indeed manipulating consumers, then the next logical step is for government to do the manipulating.

The basic problem with this type of thinking is that it replaces consumer sovereignty with government sovereignty. And substitution of government sovereignty is bad news for the consumer and bad news for the economy. Government has the tendency to move in too fast, to go too far, to stay too long, and to make its regulations too rigid. Sooner or later, governmental regulation stifles initiative, innovation, and progress.

Look at today's collective bargaining situation. In the 1930s new laws encouraged union organization. The main reason was that too many companies refused to recognize the economic rights of their employees.

But government regulations appropriate to the needs of the '30s, when workers were not organized, have persisted into the '60s, when a completely different situation prevails. Laws designed to secure to individual workers the benefits of collective bargaining now foster and promote the existence of vast concentrations of bargaining power, which create an inflationary wage - cost - price push.

Thus laws enacted to protect individuals have become not only out of date but a detriment to consumers who pay for them in inflated prices and loss of sovereignty in the market place.

Today's laws governing business prohibit monopoly; today's laws governing unions encourage monpoly. This fundamental conflict distorts our entire economic scene, and it must be corrected. There is nothing inherently wrong with bigness. The danger comes in the excessive concentration of economic power in a few hands.

When a basic industry and an industry - wide union meet at the bargaining table, the echoes can be heard around the world. Their actions usually affect our entire economy.

In my opinion, this is just too much economic power to vest in a few individuals or a few organizations.

In my opinion, this is just too much economic power to vest in a few individuals or a few organizations.

My fears are based on more than economic influence. For only one force is greater than the combined power of a major industry and a major union locked in unyielding struggle at the bargaining table. That greater force is government.

As a result, current political discussion is concentrated on methods of substituting government sovereignty and authority in the field of collective bargaining for that of unions and companies. Free collective bargaining is in gravest jeopardy. And if free collective bargaining disappears, competitive determination of prices will disappear too. Unless we find a better answer, government determination of wages and prices is not far down the road.

In my judgment, we should divide the growing concentration of monopoly union and employer power by putting collective bargaining between enterprises on the same competitive basis as prices.

In those basic industries which are made up of our large corporations, the competition should be among individual enterprises, each with its team of management, workers, and their unions. Each enterprise --each team of management, workers and unions -- should conduct its own wage negotiations in the light of its own conditions, its own facts, and its own problems. In industries which are composed of smaller enterprises, the wage competition should be among groups of enterprises in separate markets and areas.

In such cases, wage negotiations need not be conducted on a company by - company basis -- but bargaining should be on a regional or area basis, rather than on a national industry-wide basis.

Nationwide strikes or lockouts in such industries cannot be tolerated. Such power is excessive and must be divided to protect the people's role, both as customers and citizens.

The solutions to this problem must not subject individual workers to the old dog-eat-dog competition with one another, where they were encouraged to accept lower wages or inferior working conditions to undercut their fellow workers in competing for jobs. That would be wrong.

But wage rates for competing enterprise teams cannot be taken out of competition, as they are in many of our basic industries today, or government will move in sooner or later to set wage rates and put an end to collective bargaining. Wage control would make price control inevitable and that would be the end of our competitive economy.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- The international intrigue over the premature publication of the memoirs of Stalin's daughter, Svetlana Alliluyeva, is even stranger than so far has leaked into print.

The mystery man in the story is Victor Louis, a bespectacled 39-year-old Soviet journalist, whom U.S. intelligence has now identified as a Kremlin agent.

The intrigue began after Svetlana's startling defection to the west, an event that jolted the Russians as severely as the defection of Caroline Kennedy to Russia 20 years from now would shock Americans.

The state department, not wishing to get involved officially, asked ex- Ambassador to Moscow George Kennan to keep Svetlana from strumbling into any pitfalls. He called in his next - door neighbor, Attorney Edward Greenbaum, whose Madison Avenue law firm obligingly took Svetlana under its wing.

Svetlana had brought out of Russia her memoirs, all neatly typed and ready for translation. But she also left a copy behind.

Greenbaum immediately parceled out the right to Svetlana's writings to his own publishing clients, though they did not submit the highest offers.

Harper and Row, a Greenbaum client, bought the first serial rights. Life magazine also purchased rights to print advance excerpts from the book. Although life is not a Greenbaum client, it is in the family so to speak. Marian Sulzberger, daughter of the New York Times publisher, is married to Andrew Heiskell, the Time - Life board chairman.

All belong to Greenbaum's circle of friends and clients.

How much these distinguished publications paid Svetlana hasn't been announced, but it's no secret that she became a millionaire capitalist quicker than any Communist on record. Time magazine claimed she collected a record $3,200,000 from both American and British publishers, and time should be in a position to know.

Harper and Row set October as the release date for Svetlana's memoirs, and the New York Times planned a 12-instalment serialization beginning in late September. Life magazine will print its excerpts simultaneously.

ENTER VICTOR LOUIS

The autumn publishing date happens to coincide with the Soviet Union's 50th anniversary celebration, and the conspiratorial - minded men in the Kremlin detected a plot. They darkly concluded that the United States hoped to detract from the celebration by raising the ghost of Stalin by way of Svetlana's memoirs.

Soviet intermediates first tried to persuade Harper and Row to change the publication date, but the publisher refused.

Then Victor Louis suddenly appeared on the scene with the manuscript Svetlana had left behind, plus pictures from her family album. He offered these last May to Parade magazine, whose editor, Jess Gorkin, turned him down. Gorkin considered it unethical to run a story that other publications had purchased.

Louis finally peddled his bootleg manuscript to European publishers. To protect their copyright, the legitimate British publisher, Hutchinson and Company, rushed a Russian - language version of the book into print.

The highlights of Svetlana's story were picked up and printed around the world. Presumably this was the Kremlin's aim, since the story will now be stale news when the Soviets begin celebrating their 50th anniversary.

But the New York Times and Time-Life, which paid through the nose for the first rights, were furious over being scooped. They began digging into how it happened, and found Victor Louis at the bottom of the woodpile.

Time angrily accused him of peddling the manuscript and pictures like "a salesman of obscene postcards." The New York Times ran a series of stories exposing Louis as a Kremlin agent.

In Europe, Louis fussed and fumed. He got on the transatlantic phone to find out whether he could sue. He claimed plaintively that he was merely an enterprising Russian journalist, and there is no denying that he made a sizable capitalist profit on the deal.

However, U.S. intelligence is convinced that Louis is a Soviet agent with excellent pipelines into the Kremlin.

Meanwhile, the Russians are exploring the possibility of filing suits in the United States and Europe for the profits on the memoirs. The Soviets contend that Svetlana wrote her memoris originally as letters to her children, therefore they are the legal owners of the manuscript.

Note -- a spokesman for the Greenbaum law firm refused all comment, except to acknowledge that Harper and Row and the New York Times were clients.

DORTICOS IRKS CONGRESSMEN

Some congressmen have privately urged taking military action against Cuba. As justification, they point out that Cuba has virtually declared war on the United States by calling for Guerrilla warfare in our cities.

Cuban President Dorticos, in his opening address to the Communist solidarity conference in Havana, announced a policy of "Armed Struggle" not only against the United States but against other Latin American Governments. He spoke openly of organizing Guerrilla forces to stir up "revolution" and "violence" on the U.S. mainland.

This formal statement by the Cuban president, the congressmen contend, should entitle the United States to use military force against the Castro government. A public statement announcing preparations for Guerrilla warfare against this country constitutes a belligerent act, they say.

Their private statements, however, aren't likely to influence President Johnson, who believes that the $1 million - a - day that Cuba is costing the Kremlin hurts Russia more than all dictator Castro's breast - beating is damaging the United States.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Rep. Thaddeus J. Dulski, New York Democrat, is sharper than his name implies.

The third ranking member of his party on the House post office committee, pocketed a $11,000 profit from a testimonial dinner in his honor in September a la Senator Thomas Dodd of Connecticut.

There were 400 guests at the $50-a-plate dinner in Buffalo. Present were leaders of postal unions, lobbyists and big volume mailers.

What will the guests receive in return?

If future performance corresponds to recent history, the postal workers will get an increase in pay and greater fringe benefits.

The rates of junk mail users will be held at comparatively low levels so that the number of these box stuffers will increase above present levels amidst loud complaints from the general public.

What will the general public, the newspapers, the magazines and other mail users get from it?

Higher postage rates.

All this at a time when the life of some newspapers is threatened by the squeeze of soaring operating costs in which outrageous feather bedding demands, exhorbitant wage demands of unions, prohibition of increased efficiency and economy by automation, and higher postage rates are factors.

The welfare of the nation's magazines is sad to behold. General circulation magazines put out issues that are lean on advertising. Higher postal rates on these anemic publications will contribute to their early death despite the worthwhile contribution they make to society.

The unit train concept has made it possible for railroads to aid one of their biggest customers, the coal industry, in its competition with nuclear energy as the power source for generation of electric energy.

Unit train service has kept coal-by-train competitive with mine-mouth power plants -- where the utility builds its plants near a coal supply and transmits electric energy via high voltage lines -- and with coal slurry pipelines.

HANDCUFFING THE POLICE

The United States has long prided itself on the protection afforded citizens by the fine and dedicated police departments in this country. But there is increasing evidence that policemen are being hindered in their work by new and supposedly progressive ideas that prevent the policeman from performing his primary duty: the protection of the life, liberty, and property of the innocent.

In Los Angeles, official police department policy instructs the policeman to become a "street - corner sociologist." Obviously, if a policeman must stop to psychoanalyze the law-breaker, his effectiveness as a law - enforcer will be sharply curtailed. A policeman who does his job well need not worry about community relations. The innocent will respect him, and the guilty will be deterred from criminal behavior.

In addition, recent Supreme Court decisions, such as the Miranda case, also stand in the way of effective law enforcement. These decisions curtail the police in the interrogation of suspects and the obtaining of confessions. Rather than protecting the innocent as their supporters say, these decisions actually serve to protect the guilty.

Baltimore's state attorney announced recently that at least 72 self-confessed criminals, including murderers, had been released on the basis of the Miranda case.

A three - year - F.B.I. study of 167,000 offenders has indicated that emphasis on community relations and legal technicalities has limited the effectiveness of the police and allowed many criminals to go free.

Those who are innocent have nothing to fear when the law is enforced objectively and competently. The community has a great deal to fear when police are prevented from doing their jobs. H.L.H.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- The international intrigue over the premature publication of the memoirs of Stalin's daughter, Svetlana Alliluyeva, is even stranger than so far has leaked into print.

The mystery man in the story is Victor Louis, a bespectacled 39-year-old Soviet journalist, whom U.S. intelligence has now identified as a Kremlin agent.

The intrigue began after Svetlana's startling defection to the west, an event that jolted the Russians as severely as the defection of Caroline Kennedy to Russia 20 years from now would shock Americans.

The state department, not wishing to get involved officially, asked ex-Ambassador to Moscow George Kennan to keep Svetlana from strumbling into any pitfalls. He called in his next - door neighbor, Attorney Edward Greenbaum, whose Madison Avenue law firm obligingly took Svetlana under its wing.

Svetlana had brought out of Russia her memoirs, all neatly typed and ready for translation. But she also left a copy behind.

Greenbaum immediately parceled out the right to Svetlana's writings to his own publishing clients, though they did not submit the highest offers.

Harper and Row, a Greenbaum client, bought the first serial rights. Life magazine also purchased rights to print advance excerpts from the book. Although life is not a Greenbaum client, it is in the family so to speak. Marian Sulzberger, daughter of the New York Times publisher, is married to Andrew Heiskell, the Time - Life board chairman.

All belong to Greenbaum's circle of friends and clients.

How much these distinguished publications paid Svetlana hasn't been announced, but it's no secret that she became a millionaire capitalist quicker than any Communist on record. Time magazine claimed she collected a record $3,200,000 from both American and British publishers, and time should be in a position to know.

Harper and Row set October as the release date for Svetlana's memoirs, and the New York Times planned a 12-instalment serialization beginning in late September. Life magazine will print its excerpts simultaneously.

ENTER VICTOR LOUIS

The autumn publishing date happens to coincide with the Soviet Union's 50th anniversary celebration, and the conspiratorial - minded men in the Kremlin detected a plot. They darkly concluded that the United States hoped to detract from the celebration by raising the ghost of Stalin by way of Svetlana's memoirs.

Soviet intermediates first tried to persuade Harper and Row to change the publication date, but the publisher refused.

Then Victor Louis suddenly appeared on the scene with the manuscript Svetlana had left behind, plus pictures from her family album. He offered these last May to Parade magazine, whose editor, Jess Gorkin, turned him down. Gorkin considered it unethical to run a story that other publications had purchased.

Louis finally peddled his bootleg manuscript to European publishers. To protect their copyright, the legitimate British publisher, Hutchinson and Company, rushed a Russian - language version of the book into print.

The highlights of Svetlana's story were picked up and printed around the world. Presumably this was the Kremlin's aim, since the story will now be stale news when the Soviets begin celebrating their 50th anniversary.

But the New York Times and Time-Life, which paid through the nose for the first rights, were furious over being scooped. They began digging into how it happened, and found Victor Louis at the bottom of the woodpile.

Time angrily accused him of peddling the manuscript and pictures like "a salesman of obscene postcards." The New York Times ran a series of stories exposing Louis as a Kremlin agent.

In Europe, Louis fussed and fumed. He got on the transatlantic phone to find out whether he could sue. He claimed plaintively that he was merely an enterprising Russian journalist, and there is no denying that he made a sizable capitalist profit on the deal.

However, U.S. intelligence is convinced that Louis is a Soviet agent with excellent pipelines into the Kremlin.

Meanwhile, the Russians are exploring the possibility of filing suits in the United States and Europe for the profits on the memoirs. The Soviets contend that Svetlana wrote her memoris originally as letters to her children, therefore they are the legal owners of the manuscript.

Note -- a spokesman for the Greenbaum law firm refused all comment, except to acknowledge that Harper and Row and the New York Times were clients.

DORTICOS IRKS CONGRESSMEN

Some congressmen have privately urged taking military action against Cuba. As justification, they point out that Cuba has virtually declared war on the United States by calling for Guerrilla warfare in our cities.

Cuban President Dorticos, in his opening address to the Communist solidarity conference in Havana, announced a policy of "Armed Struggle" not only against the United States but against other Latin American Governments. He spoke openly of organizing Guerrilla forces to stir up "revolution" and "violence" on the U.S. mainland.

This formal statement by the Cuban president, the congressmen contend, should entitle the United States to use military force against the Castro government. A public statement announcing preparations for Guerrilla warfare against this country constitutes a belligerent act, they say.

Their private statements, however, aren't likely to influence President Johnson, who believes that the $1 million - a - day that Cuba is costing the Kremlin hurts Russia more than all dictator Castro's breast - beating is damaging the United States.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Romney Charges 'Great Society' Doesn't Trust American Consumers

There is a domestic front. Not all the issues of the coming presidential battle will be international, or of war and peace, or of Vietnam. Thus, the other day I turned to Republican front runner, Gov. George Romney, and asked what he believed would be the most critical problems "stateside."

Mr. Romney lashed at government intervention in the private lives of the citizenry, and controls on labor and management. Labor, he charged, now is becoming monopolistic with the aid of federal statutes.

Here, in his own words, is the definitive statement of the beliefs of a leading contender for the Republican presidential monination:

By George Romney
Governor of Michigan

Lansing: -- The great political economist Henry L. Simons once observed that there are only two ways to discipline an economy: By competition or by absolute authority.

Historically, America chose competition.

Through competition, we have given the customer ultimate power to regulate the economy, through his own free choices in the market place -- just as he has the ultimate power to control his government, through his free choices at the ballot box.

Competing enterprises bid freely and fiercely for the favor of the customer. The producer prospers or dies at the will of the customer. And the customer reaps the principal benefits of economic progress.

Consumer sovereignty in a free market has made the American economy the envy of the world.

But consumer sovereignty faces grave challenges today. One comes from the diminishing faith in our competitive enterprise system, fed by the theories of the advocates of a planned society.

One of The Great Society's most renowned economic prophets recently wrote: "Everyone, including all economists, agrees on consumer sovereignty in principle, but no one wants to trust it in practice."

This economist and much of The Great Society clearly demonstrate that they don't trust the American customer. The trust of their argument is that industry, not the customer, controls and manages demand, telling the customer what he wants or should have, and managing the customer's life.

I thoroughly disagree. I trust the customer. Trust in the customer was the basis for the recovery program at American Motors ten years ago, when I was its president.

I believe that consumer sovereignty is the keystone to our competitive enterprise system. If we are to continue to progress as a nation, consumer sovereignty must be protected and strengthened at all costs. But if The Great Society economic planner are right, and if industry is indeed manipulating consumers, then the next logical step is for government to do the manipulating.

The basic problem with this type of thinking is that it replaces consumer sovereignty with government sovereignty. And substitution of government sovereignty is bad news for the consumer and bad news for the economy. Government has the tendency to move in too fast, to go too far, to stay too long, and to make its regulations too rigid. Sooner or later, governmental regulation stifles initiative, innovation, and progress.

Look at today's collective bargaining situation. In the 1930s new laws encouraged union organization. The main reason was that too many companies refused to recognize the economic rights of their employees.

But government regulations appropriate to the needs of the '30s, when workers were not organized, have persisted into the '60s, when a completely different situation prevails. Laws designed to secure to individual workers the benefits of collective bargaining now foster and promote the existence of vast concentrations of bargaining power, which create an inflationary wage - cost - price push.

Thus laws enacted to protect individuals have become not only out of date but a detriment to consumers who pay for them in inflated prices and loss of sovereignty in the market place.

Today's laws governing business prohibit monopoly; today's laws governing unions encourage monpoly. This fundamental conflict distorts our entire economic scene, and it must be corrected. There is nothing inherently wrong with bigness. The danger comes in the excessive concentration of economic power in a few hands.

When a basic industry and an industry - wide union meet at the bargaining table, the echoes can be heard around the world. Their actions usually affect our entire economy.

In my opinion, this is just too much economic power to vest in a few individuals or a few organizations.

In my opinion, this is just too much economic power to vest in a few individuals or a few organizations.

My fears are based on more than economic influence. For only one force is greater than the combined power of a major industry and a major union locked in unyielding struggle at the bargaining table. That greater force is government.

As a result, current political discussion is concentrated on methods of substituting government sovereignty and authority in the field of collective bargaining for that of unions and companies. Free collective bargaining is in gravest jeopardy. And if free collective bargaining disappears, competitive determination of prices will disappear too. Unless we find a better answer, government determination of wages and prices is not far down the road.

In my judgment, we should divide the growing concentration of monopoly union and employer power by putting collective bargaining between enterprises on the same competitive basis as prices.

In those basic industries which are made up of our large corporations, the competition should be among individual enterprises, each with its team of management, workers, and their unions. Each enterprise --each team of management, workers and unions -- should conduct its own wage negotiations in the light of its own conditions, its own facts, and its own problems. In industries which are composed of smaller enterprises, the wage competition should be among groups of enterprises in separate markets and areas.

In such cases, wage negotiations need not be conducted on a company by - company basis -- but bargaining should be on a regional or area basis, rather than on a national industry-wide basis.

Nationwide strikes or lockouts in such industries cannot be tolerated. Such power is excessive and must be divided to protect the people's role, both as customers and citizens.

The solutions to this problem must not subject individual workers to the old dog-eat-dog competition with one another, where they were encouraged to accept lower wages or inferior working conditions to undercut their fellow workers in competing for jobs. That would be wrong.

But wage rates for competing enterprise teams cannot be taken out of competition, as they are in many of our basic industries today, or government will move in sooner or later to set wage rates and put an end to collective bargaining. Wage control would make price control inevitable and that would be the end of our competitive economy.

Roxanna D. Reinagel Says Vows With Gary Ziegler

KELSO -- St. Augustine's Catholic Church here was the setting Saturday morning for the wedding of Miss Roxanna D. Reinagel and Gary J. Ziegler. The double ring ceremony was performed by the pastor, the Rev. Joseph F. Keusenkothen, amid arrangements of twin baskets of white gladioli. Nuptial music was provided by Sister Janet Marie and the church choir.

The former Miss Reinagel is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Reinagel of Illmo, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ziegler of Benton.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported silk organza and peau d'ange lace. The empire bodice was of the same lace featuring elbow-length scalloped Kabuka sleeves. The front of the bodice was lavishly trimmed with seed pearls. A wide band of scalloped lace outlined the bottom of the semi-controlled organza skirt. The queen's court train of double layers of organza gathered at the top on a bank of lace, floating from the high waist into a full chapel length. A three tiered bouffant hand rolled veil of imported English illusion was attached to a flower circlet of orange blossoms and stephanotis, with sprays of the flowers trellising down the sides, entwining in her hair. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

The bride's attendants, Mrs. Norbert Ziegler and Miss Charlotte Bollinger of Illmo, were dressed alike in formal gowns of taffeta and white lace. A sleeveless cut-a-way coat of the same fabric was worn over gowns with self fabric bows accenting the shoulders. One coat was jonquil yellow and the other mint green. Nosetip veils of silk maline were attached to headdresses dyed to match their gowns, floral caps with streamers of flowers trellising down the back. They each carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums.

The flower girl, Gaynell Robert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Robert of Benton, wore a mint green dress styled like that of the attendants. She carried a basket of yellow pompons. Kenneth Reinagel, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

Ziegler chose his brother, Norbert Ziegler of Illmo, as bestman and Thomas Reinagel of Illmo, brother of the bride, as groomsman. Ushers were Ronald Glastetter of Chaffee and Roy Ziegler of Benton, brother of the groom.

Following the ceremony an all day reception was held in the St. Lawrence School Hall in New Hamburg. Miss Theresa Ziegler presided at the guest register.

The new Mrs. Ziegler is a 1965 graduate of Notre Dame High school in Cape Girardeau, and is employed as shipping clerk by Sport Specialty Shoemakers in Chaffee. Ziegler, a 1963 graduate of Kelly high school at Benton, is attending Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau.

After a short wedding trip the newlyweds will make their home in Scott City.

NEW HAMBURG -- The St. Lawrence Catholic church was the setting July 29 for the wedding of Miss Carol Ann Kern and Floyd J. Klipfel. The Rev. Clem Ilmberger performed the double ring ceremony before an altar appointed by hydrangeas and zinnias in arrangement. Nuptial music was played by Mrs. Charles Klueppel.

The former Miss Kern is the daughter of Mrs. Rose Kern of New Hamburg and Klipfel is the son of Mrs. Ella Klipfel of Oran.

The bride's gown was of Chantilly lace with bouffant skirt worn over hoops. Lace ruffles cascaded to form the skirt and train, and sequins trimmed the ruffles. She carried a bouquet of white roses about an orchid.

A sister of the bride, Miss Barbara Kern, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were another sister, Miss Charlene Kern, Miss Vickie Glastetter, Miss Dorothy Dirnberger, Mrs. Jewel Moore and Miss Roxie Reinagel. Deana Klipfel was flower girl.

Two bridesmaids wore pink, sleeveless formal gowns of taffeta with white lace panels at front; two others wore similar gowns in yellow hue, and the remaining two wore blue gowns. Colonial hats to match their gowns were worn by the attendants who carried bouquets of roses that also matched their attire.

Calvin Glastetter was bestman and groomsmen were Junior Kern and Donald Kern, brothers of the bride, Danny Burger, Gary Ziegler and Jewel Moore. Russell Burger served as ringbearer. Ushers were Elmer J. Kern, another brother of the bride, and Alvin Stause of Leopold.

Rainbow colors in streamers decorated the school hall where a reception was held after the service. Mrs. Estel Horrell and Mrs. Ralph Klipfel invited guests to enter their names in the guest book.

Johnson Family Reunited Sunday

WASHINGTON AP - The Johnson family reunited Sunday after beaches and business had taken everyone but grandpa-the President-and Little Lyn Nugent away from the White House.

Luci and Patrick J. Nugent flew in from Nassau in the Bahama Islands, where they had returned for a week-long vacation to their oceanside villa honeymoon spot of a year ago.

The suntanned couple left their 7-week-old son in the hands of his nurse and grandparent babysitters while they were away.

A White House spokesman quoted Luci as saying she didn't know how it was going to be to part with her baby for the first time but that she came home thinking it was good for everybody.

The Nugents are expected to leave in a few days for their Austin, Tex., home and a stop at Waukegan, Ill., to visit his parents.

Mrs. Johnson, who had been at the LBJ ranch in Texas for a few days to make decisions on an addition to the house there, flew back to Washington late Saturday night.

And Lynda, the other Johnson daughter, rejoined the family after a weekend at Rehoboth Beach, Del.

"It was just a routine day. We hovered over New Jersey for a while, touched down in Connecticut, went over the end of Long Island, and came home."

"That's very good of you," said the woman walking towards the exit. "That awful thing bothers me every time I pass."

Mildred Anne Wulfers Marries Roy F. Georger

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- A center bouquet of white gladioli and altar candles formed the setting Aug. 5 for the wedding of Miss Mildred Anne Wulfers and Roy Francis Georger. The double ring ceremony was performed at St. Mary's Cathedral by the assistant pastor, the Rev. Amel Shibley. The church choir sang, accompanied at the organ by Miss Vicki Maurer.

The former Miss Wulfers is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Wulfers Sr., 725 North Clark, and Georger is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucas Georger of Painton.

Escorted down the white-carpeted aisle by her father, the bride chose for her wedding a slender silhouette gown of Irish linen. Lace accented the empire waist and banded the elbow-length sleeves. The A-line skirt was embrordered with a double row of matching lace and a chapel-length train swept from the waist secured by a self-fabric bow with lace edging the base of the train. A queen's crown of pearlized lilies of the valley and rosettes secured the veil of illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white camellias with white satin ribbon streamers.

Miss Teresa Wulfers, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Mrs. Sharon Scheets of Chaffee was bridesmaid. Their floor-length fitted gowns were of powder blue. The bodice was overlaid with white lace and the crepe skirts were banded at the waist by satin streamers. Their bouffant veils were held by petal clusters and they carried purple asters and white pompon chrysanthemums.

Elmer Georger of Painton served his brother as best man and another brother, Gary Georger of Painton, was groomsman. Ushers were Raymond and George L. Wulfers Jr., brothers of the bride, and Paul and Kenneth Lett, cousins of the bridegroom.

A buffet luncheon was served in the Knights of Columbus Hall following the ceremony. Wedding bells and flowers were placed on the tables and around the wedding cake. Serving the guests were Mrs. Leon Wulfers, Mrs. John Wulfers, Miss Lynn Crafton, Miss Maggie Dohogne and Miss Anna Essner. Mrs. Patricia Masters and Miss Nancy Stone attended the guest book.

The new Mrs. Georger is a junior at Southeast Missouri State College, where she will receive an associate of arts degree in data processing in January. Georger will also graduate in January with a Bachelor of Science degree in physics. Both are employed at St. Francis hospital.

They will make their home in the Pioneer Trailer Court.

Roxanna D. Reinagel Says Vows With Gary Ziegler

KELSO -- St. Augustine's Catholic Church here was the setting Saturday morning for the wedding of Miss Roxanna D. Reinagel and Gary J. Ziegler. The double ring ceremony was performed by the pastor, the Rev. Joseph F. Keusenkothen, amid arrangements of twin baskets of white gladioli. Nuptial music was provided by Sister Janet Marie and the church choir.

The former Miss Reinagel is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Reinagel of Illmo, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ziegler of Benton.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported silk organza and peau d'ange lace. The empire bodice was of the same lace featuring elbow-length scalloped Kabuka sleeves. The front of the bodice was lavishly trimmed with seed pearls. A wide band of scalloped lace outlined the bottom of the semi-controlled organza skirt. The queen's court train of double layers of organza gathered at the top on a bank of lace, floating from the high waist into a full chapel length. A three tiered bouffant hand rolled veil of imported English illusion was attached to a flower circlet of orange blossoms and stephanotis, with sprays of the flowers trellising down the sides, entwining in her hair. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

The bride's attendants, Mrs. Norbert Ziegler and Miss Charlotte Bollinger of Illmo, were dressed alike in formal gowns of taffeta and white lace. A sleeveless cut-a-way coat of the same fabric was worn over gowns with self fabric bows accenting the shoulders. One coat was jonquil yellow and the other mint green. Nosetip veils of silk maline were attached to headdresses dyed to match their gowns, floral caps with streamers of flowers trellising down the back. They each carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums.

The flower girl, Gaynell Robert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Robert of Benton, wore a mint green dress styled like that of the attendants. She carried a basket of yellow pompons. Kenneth Reinagel, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

Ziegler chose his brother, Norbert Ziegler of Illmo, as bestman and Thomas Reinagel of Illmo, brother of the bride, as groomsman. Ushers were Ronald Glastetter of Chaffee and Roy Ziegler of Benton, brother of the groom.

Following the ceremony an all day reception was held in the St. Lawrence School Hall in New Hamburg. Miss Theresa Ziegler presided at the guest register.

The new Mrs. Ziegler is a 1965 graduate of Notre Dame High school in Cape Girardeau, and is employed as shipping clerk by Sport Specialty Shoemakers in Chaffee. Ziegler, a 1963 graduate of Kelly high school at Benton, is attending Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau.

After a short wedding trip the newlyweds will make their home in Scott City.

NEW HAMBURG -- The St. Lawrence Catholic church was the setting July 29 for the wedding of Miss Carol Ann Kern and Floyd J. Klipfel. The Rev. Clem Ilmberger performed the double ring ceremony before an altar appointed by hydrangeas and zinnias in arrangement. Nuptial music was played by Mrs. Charles Klueppel.

The former Miss Kern is the daughter of Mrs. Rose Kern of New Hamburg and Klipfel is the son of Mrs. Ella Klipfel of Oran.

The bride's gown was of Chantilly lace with bouffant skirt worn over hoops. Lace ruffles cascaded to form the skirt and train, and sequins trimmed the ruffles. She carried a bouquet of white roses about an orchid.

A sister of the bride, Miss Barbara Kern, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were another sister, Miss Charlene Kern, Miss Vickie Glastetter, Miss Dorothy Dirnberger, Mrs. Jewel Moore and Miss Roxie Reinagel. Deana Klipfel was flower girl.

Two bridesmaids wore pink, sleeveless formal gowns of taffeta with white lace panels at front; two others wore similar gowns in yellow hue, and the remaining two wore blue gowns. Colonial hats to match their gowns were worn by the attendants who carried bouquets of roses that also matched their attire.

Calvin Glastetter was bestman and groomsmen were Junior Kern and Donald Kern, brothers of the bride, Danny Burger, Gary Ziegler and Jewel Moore. Russell Burger served as ringbearer. Ushers were Elmer J. Kern, another brother of the bride, and Alvin Stause of Leopold.

Rainbow colors in streamers decorated the school hall where a reception was held after the service. Mrs. Estel Horrell and Mrs. Ralph Klipfel invited guests to enter their names in the guest book.

Johnson Family Reunited Sunday

WASHINGTON AP - The Johnson family reunited Sunday after beaches and business had taken everyone but grandpa-the President-and Little Lyn Nugent away from the White House.

Luci and Patrick J. Nugent flew in from Nassau in the Bahama Islands, where they had returned for a week-long vacation to their oceanside villa honeymoon spot of a year ago.

The suntanned couple left their 7-week-old son in the hands of his nurse and grandparent babysitters while they were away.

A White House spokesman quoted Luci as saying she didn't know how it was going to be to part with her baby for the first time but that she came home thinking it was good for everybody.

The Nugents are expected to leave in a few days for their Austin, Tex., home and a stop at Waukegan, Ill., to visit his parents.

Mrs. Johnson, who had been at the LBJ ranch in Texas for a few days to make decisions on an addition to the house there, flew back to Washington late Saturday night.

And Lynda, the other Johnson daughter, rejoined the family after a weekend at Rehoboth Beach, Del.

"It was just a routine day. We hovered over New Jersey for a while, touched down in Connecticut, went over the end of Long Island, and came home."

Increased professional police training is no longer a desirable goal, no longer a matter of choice for United State law enforcement. It is an absolute necessity. J. Edgar Hoover

A middle-aged woman, a society dowager type, walked into a hatshop on Fifth Avenue. She pointed to a hat in the window. "That green hat with the feathers," she said, "would you be kind enough to take it out of the window for me?"

"Certainly, Madam," the salesman replied, "I'd be happy to."

"That's very good of you," said the woman walking towards the exit. "That awful thing bothers me every time I pass."

Mildred Anne Wulfers Marries Roy F. Georger

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- A center bouquet of white gladioli and altar candles formed the setting Aug. 5 for the wedding of Miss Mildred Anne Wulfers and Roy Francis Georger. The double ring ceremony was performed at St. Mary's Cathedral by the assistant pastor, the Rev. Amel Shibley. The church choir sang, accompanied at the organ by Miss Vicki Maurer.

The former Miss Wulfers is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Wulfers Sr., 725 North Clark, and Georger is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucas Georger of Painton.

Escorted down the white-carpeted aisle by her father, the bride chose for her wedding a slender silhouette gown of Irish linen. Lace accented the empire waist and banded the elbow-length sleeves. The A-line skirt was embrordered with a double row of matching lace and a chapel-length train swept from the waist secured by a self-fabric bow with lace edging the base of the train. A queen's crown of pearlized lilies of the valley and rosettes secured the veil of illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white camellias with white satin ribbon streamers.

Miss Teresa Wulfers, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Mrs. Sharon Scheets of Chaffee was bridesmaid. Their floor-length fitted gowns were of powder blue. The bodice was overlaid with white lace and the crepe skirts were banded at the waist by satin streamers. Their bouffant veils were held by petal clusters and they carried purple asters and white pompon chrysanthemums.

Elmer Georger of Painton served his brother as best man and another brother, Gary Georger of Painton, was groomsman. Ushers were Raymond and George L. Wulfers Jr., brothers of the bride, and Paul and Kenneth Lett, cousins of the bridegroom.

A buffet luncheon was served in the Knights of Columbus Hall following the ceremony. Wedding bells and flowers were placed on the tables and around the wedding cake. Serving the guests were Mrs. Leon Wulfers, Mrs. John Wulfers, Miss Lynn Crafton, Miss Maggie Dohogne and Miss Anna Essner. Mrs. Patricia Masters and Miss Nancy Stone attended the guest book.

The new Mrs. Georger is a junior at Southeast Missouri State College, where she will receive an associate of arts degree in data processing in January. Georger will also graduate in January with a Bachelor of Science degree in physics. Both are employed at St. Francis hospital.

They will make their home in the Pioneer Trailer Court.

Cards Hold 8 1/2 Lead

Hughes Claims 11th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

St. Louis won its third one-run victory over the San Francisco Giants Sunday, 2-1, to retain an 8 1/2 game bulge over streaking runnerup Atlanta in the National League.

The Giants outhit the Cards, 8-5, but St. Louis combined two of those hits, a single and a double with a walk and a sacrifice in the third inning, for both of their runs.

The Cards-Giants game was a brilliant pitching duel between Ray Sadecki and St. Louis rookie Dick Hughes. The third inning walk allowed by Sadecki appears to have been the key to his downfall. It was one of three that he gave up

Hughes didn't walk a man over seven and two-thirds innings and got outstanding backup support from reliever, Joe Hoerner, who allowed only one hit and no walks in finishing up for his 11th victory.

The Giants got their only run in the fourth on Willie McCovey's triple and an infield single by Jim Ray Hart.

Kansas City is idle today. The pressure remains on the Cards as they open a three-game series tonight with the Chicago Cubs, nine games back in third place.

Larry Jaster will start for St. Louis and Ray Culp for the Cubs.

Over in Vietnam, somebody will undoubtedly be glad that Pvt. Ken Holtzman gave a couple of pints of blood last week. Back in Philadelphia, they may wish he wasn't all that civic-minded.

Holtzman, on his first pass from the Army in nearly three months, pitched well enough for 5 1-3 innings for the Chicago Cubs to beat the Phillies 6-2. They took the nightcap, too, 1-0 behind Ferguson Jenkins.

Holtzman, who went into the Army for six months with a 5-0 records on May 20, hopes to make his weekend pitching a regular thing now that he's out of basic training and learning to be a combat medic at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

"I won't know until Friday if I'm going to get a pass," he said. "This weekend I got one by giving two pints of blood. I've got enough left if they say give some more, but I'm not doing it just to get a pass. It goes to Vietnam. I know how much it's needed."

Maybe it was the long layoff or maybe the missing blood, but Holtzman says he began to tire in the fifth and Manager Leo Durocher took the 21-year-old lefty out, though he gave up just four hits, striking out for and walking two.

Bill Stoneman finished up and Ron Santo's 25th homer sparked a three-run fourth inning. Jenkins stopped the Phils on four hits in the second game, winning his 16th game, and Don Kessinger drove in the only run of the game.

In other National League contests Sunday, New York swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 3-0 and 11-9, Cincinnati shut out Los Angeles and Atlanta crushed Houston 8-4.

In the American League, Minnesota edged Chicago 3-2, Detroit nipped Baltimore 3-2, New York outfought Cleveland 15-11, California edged Boston 3-2 and Washington blanked Kansas City 2-0.

Holtzman admitted he "felt a little like a rookie again" when he faced his first major league batter in 85 days, but added, "once I started throwing I had no flutters."

Tom Seaver threw a four-hit shutout in the first game for the Mets, who scored three times in the eighth inning to beat the Pirates. Ed Kranepool's two-out single drove in the only run New York needed.

In the second game, the Pirates took an 8-3 lead into the eighth, but the Mets fought back for five runs on two singles, a sacrifice fly and a force out. Ron Swoboda homered for New York and Willie Stargell and Bob Rodgers connected for the Pirates.

Sammy Ellis made it two shutouts in a row for the Reds over the Dodgers, stopping Los Angeles on three hits. Lee May hit a two-run homer for Cincinnati. Saturday, Milt Pappas blanked the Dodgers on six hits.

Rico Carty, Mack Jones and Hank Aaron hit homers for the Braves who won their fifth consecutive game as the Astros dropped their 10th straight and fell into the National League cellar.

New Madrid County Champs Take Second In 12th Annual Tourney

Poplar Bluff won two games Saturday and claimed the 12th annual Sikeston invitational baseball championship for 11 and 12-year-olds at Puckett field.

Rain Wednesday forced the four-game schedule to be moved from a Friday close to Saturday. Lilbourn took the 2 p.m. contest 7-2 over Cairo and Poplar Bluff claimed the 3;30 p.m. contest, a 4-0 win over the National All-Stars.

Sikeston claimed the third place trophy with a 12-2 win in four innings over Cairo and Poplar Bluff collected seven hits off Grant Dambach for a 8-5 victory.

Dambach was voted the tournament's outstanding player along with Billy Colwick of the National All Stars.

Dambach had an 8 for 14 performances at the plate including two homers and had a no-hit victory along with a three hitter and five-hit win.

Colwick has eight for 12 with a pair of homers and pitched a no-hitter and won another in relief, giving up one hit.

The championship Poplar Bluff squad placed two players on the honorable mention list as move valuable players, Odie Willis and Benny Holt.

Jimmy Warden of Cairo was chosen and Richard LaPlant of the National league Stars.

Bluff used five extra base hits to claim the title, roughing Lilbourn hurler Dambach for his first tournament defeat.

The winners were led by Tom Williams, who hit a homer and a double. Teammate Benny Holt hit a pair of doubles and Bob McDonald a two base hit.

Sikeston claimed third place honors with a 12-2 win over Cairo by issuing three home runs and a double to tally their 12 runs.

Twins Move Into ALLead; White Sox Take 3-2Lump

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Eddie Stanky must have thought it was all a bad dream.

Here was Minnesota tip-toeing away with the American League lead and using a pitch and putt attack more characteristic of Stanky's Chicago White Sox to do it.

So, with first place slowly drifting away, Stanky decided to put up a fight. And all that strategy got him was an early shower. About two outs early.

The Twins were nursing a 3-2 lead built on a Chicago-type rally of two singles, a double steal, an intentional walk, and a force play. When Tommie Agee opened the ninth with a long double, Stanky thought he was back in business.

But Agee, trying to stretch his hit, was thrown out a third on a close play. Stanky rushed umpire Bill Valentine, tossed his cap, jawed nose to nose and was invited to leave early. Two outs later, the rest of the White Sox followed.

The 3-2 victory moved the Twins into the league lead, ½ game in front of Chicago. Detroit, which beat Baltimore 3-2, is third, one game back. California took fourth place, 1½ games behind, by beating Boston 3-2. The Red Sox are fifth, 2½ games out.

In other American League games, New York outslugged Cleveland 15-11 and Washington blanked Kansas City -2-0.

The Twins' victory was their fourth straight and completed an 8-2 home stand. "Now we've got to have a good road trip to make it stick," said Manager Cal Ermer.

Stanky locked the clubhouse door for 30 minutes after the game and wouldn't discuss the play at third base on Agee. "We got beat 3-2," he said, "That's all I've got to say."

The Twins pushed the winning run across in the eighth. Cesar Tovar and Tony Oliva opened with singles and worked the double steal after Harmon Killebrew struck out.

Bob Allison was intentionally walked and then Don Buford deflected Rich Rollins' bouncer to Ron Hansen, who forced Killebrew at second as Tovar scored.

Rollins drove in all three Minnesota runs and Agee homered for the White Sox.

Detroit got a three-run homer from light-hitting Ray Oyler to beat the Orioles. Oyler, batting .206, tagged his first homer of the season in the second inning after Al Kaline doubled and Jim Price walked.

Paul Blair and Curt Blefary touched winner Earl Wilson, 16-9, for homers. Rookie Fred Lasher finished up for the Tigers.

California won its fourth straight, with home runs by Jose Cardenal and Roger Repoz the big blows. Cardenal's inside-the-park shot led off the game for the Angels and Repoz connected against loser Jim Lonborg, 16-6 in the second inning.

Rico Petrocelli had a two-run shot for Boston with two out in the ninth, but Bill Kelso, the third Angel pitcher, came on to get the final out.

Bob Tillman drove in six runs -three on a ninth inning homer- and Horace Clarke and Ruben Amaro smacked four hits apiece as the Yankees beat the Indians. Max Alvis rapped a pair of home runs for Cleveland.

Frank Bertaina pitched a five-hitter as the Senators reached .500 again by beating the Athletics. Rick Monday's second inning error and singles by Bernie Allen and Ed Brinkman, provided all the runs Bertaina needed.

The Senators, in sixth place, are only six games behind the league leading Twins, and how's that for a pennant race?

ORAN -- Tim Halter pitched and hit Oran's high school baseball Eagles past Scott County Central high for the SEMO high school baseball tournament championship Saturday night, 13-0.

Yesterday's slate had the Benton Culls taking a 6-2 win over Rose Con and Bell City Olivers coasting to a 7-0 victory over New Hamburg's Blues, on Don Robert's no-hitter.

John Watkins was the losing hurler in Saturday's only game, allowing five hits, including three by Kelso's Lonnie Dohogne.

Larry Steimle was the winner for the Benton Culls, allowing five hits. Larry Burton provided the batting power with three of Benton's five hits, a single, double and triple.

Opening Football Practice For MSHSAA Member Schools

High school boys from approximately 410 Missouri schools will be beginning football practice for the 1967 season tomorrow, the first permissible practice date under MSHSAA regulations. On this date hundreds of high school boys will be issued football tags and coaches will be checking to make certain that each player has had his physical examination.

Early fall football practice is conducted during the warm and highly humid August weather and the MSHSAA strongly urges high school coaches to take every precaution to prevent athletic injuries. Heat fatigue dulls the athlete's skillful alertness and makes him more vulnerable to injury. Heat exhaustion and heat stroke can result in serious physical harm and even death; both are preventable.

Some of lettermen, will be missing due to participation in the Connie Mack baseball tournament at Lamar, Colo.

The squad will be bolstered by 10 returning lettermen and an abundance of junior high graduates and substitutes.

Cards Hold 8 1/2 Lead

Hughes Claims 11th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

St. Louis won its third one-run victory over the San Francisco Giants Sunday, 2-1, to retain an 8 1/2 game bulge over streaking runnerup Atlanta in the National League.

The Giants outhit the Cards, 8-5, but St. Louis combined two of those hits, a single and a double with a walk and a sacrifice in the third inning, for both of their runs.

The Cards-Giants game was a brilliant pitching duel between Ray Sadecki and St. Louis rookie Dick Hughes. The third inning walk allowed by Sadecki appears to have been the key to his downfall. It was one of three that he gave up.

Hughes didn't walk a man over seven and two-thirds innings and got outstanding backup support from reliever, Joe Hoerner, who allowed only one hit and no walks in finishing up for his 11th victory.

The Giants got their only run in the fourth on Willie McCovey's triple and an infield single by Jim Ray Hart.

Kansas City is idle today. The pressure remains on the Cards as they open a three-game series tonight with the Chicago Cubs, nine games back in third place.

Larry Jaster will start for St. Louis and Ray Culp for the Cubs.

Over in Vietnam, somebody will undoubtedly be glad that Pvt. Ken Holtzman gave a couple of pints of blood last week. Back in Philadelphia, they may wish he wasn't all that civic-minded.

Holtzman, on his first pass from the Army in nearly three months, pitched well enough for 5 1-3 innings for the Chicago Cubs to beat the Phillies 6-2. They took the nightcap, too, 1-0 behind Ferguson Jenkins.

Holtzman, who went into the Army for six months with a 5-0 records on May 20, hopes to make his weekend pitching a regular thing now that he's out of basic training and learning to be a combat medic at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

"I won't know until Friday if I'm going to get a pass," he said. "This weekend I got one by giving two pints of blood. I've got enough left if they say give some more, but I'm not doing it just to get a pass. It goes to Vietnam. I know how much it's needed."

Maybe it was the long layoff or maybe the missing blood, but Holtzman says he began to tire in the fifth and Manager Leo Durocher took the 21-year-old lefty out, though he gave up just four hits, striking out for and walking two.

Bill Stoneman finished up and Ron Santo's 25th homer sparked a three-run fourth inning. Jenkins stopped the Phils on four hits in the second game, winning his 16th game, and Don Kessinger drove in the only run of the game.

In other National League contests Sunday, New York swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 3-0 and 11-9, Cincinnati shut out Los Angeles and Atlanta crushed Houston 8-4.

In the American League, Minnesota edged Chicago 3-2, Detroit nipped Baltimore 3-2, New York outfought Cleveland 15-11, California edged Boston 3-2 and Washington blanked Kansas City 2-0.

Holtzman admitted he "felt a little like a rookie again" when he faced his first major league batter in 85 days, but added, "once I started throwing I had no flutters."

Tom Seaver threw a four-hit shutout in the first game for the Mets, who scored three times in the eighth inning to beat the Pirates. Ed Kranepool's two-out single drove in the only run New York needed.

In the second game, the Pirates took an 8-3 lead into the eighth, but the Mets fought back for five runs on two singles, a sacrifice fly and a force out. Ron Swoboda homered for New York and Willie Stargell and Bob Rodgers connected for the Pirates.

Sammy Ellis made it two shutouts in a row for the Reds over the Dodgers, stopping Los Angeles on three hits. Lee May hit a two-run homer for Cincinnati. Saturday, Milt Pappas blanked the Dodgers on six hits.

Rico Carty, Mack Jones and Hank Aaron hit homers for the Braves who won their fifth consecutive game as the Astros dropped their 10th straight and fell into the National League cellar.

New Madrid County Champs Take Second In 12th Annual Tourney

Poplar Bluff won two games Saturday and claimed the 12th annual Sikeston invitational baseball championship for 11 and 12-year-olds at Puckett field.

Rain Wednesday forced the four-game schedule to be moved from a Friday close to Saturday. Lilbourn took the 2 p.m. contest 7-2 over Cairo and Poplar Bluff claimed the 3:30 p.m. contest, a 4-0 win over the National All-Stars.

Sikeston claimed the third place trophy with a 12-2 win in four innings over Cairo and Poplar Bluff collected seven hits off Grant Dambach for a 8-5 victory.

Dambach was voted the tournament's outstanding player along with Billy Colwick of the National All Stars.

Dambach had an 8 for 14 performances at the plate including two homers and had a no-hit victory along with a three hitter and five-hit win.

Colwick has eight for 12 with a pair of homers and pitched a no-hitter and won another in relief, giving up one hit.

The championship Poplar Bluff squad placed two players on the honorable mention list as move valuable players, Odie Willis and Benny Holt.

Jimmy Warden of Cairo was chosen and Richard LaPlant of the National league Stars.

Bluff used five extra base hits to claim the title, roughing Lilbourn hurler Dambach for his first tournament defeat.

The winners were led by Tom Williams, who hit a homer and a double. Teammate Benny Holt hit a pair of doubles and Bob McDonald a two base hit.

Sikeston claimed third place honors with a 12-2 win over Cairo by issuing three home runs and a double to tally their 12 runs.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Eddie Stanky must have thought it was all a bad dream.

Here was Minnesota tip-toeing away with the American League lead and using a pitch and putt attack more characteristic of Stanky's Chicago White Sox to do it.

So, with first place slowly drifting away, Stanky decided to put up a fight. And all that strategy got him was an early shower. About two outs early.

The Twins were nursing a 3-2 lead built on a Chicago-type rally of two singles, a double steal, an intentional walk, and a force play. When Tommie Agee opened the ninth with a long double, Stanky thought he was back in business.

But Agee, trying to stretch his hit, was thrown out a third on a close play. Stanky rushed umpire Bill Valentine, tossed his cap, jawed nose to nose and was invited to leave early. Two outs later, the rest of the White Sox followed.

The 3-2 victory moved the Twins into the league lead, ½ game in front of Chicago. Detroit, which beat Baltimore 3-2, is third, one game back. California took fourth place, 1½ games behind, by beating Boston 3-2. The Red Sox are fifth, 2½ games out.

In other American League games, New York outslugged Cleveland 15-11 and Washington blanked Kansas City 2-0.

The Twins' victory was their fourth straight and completed an 8-2 home stand. "Now we've got to have a good road trip to make it stick," said Manager Cal Ermer.

Stanky locked the clubhouse door for 30 minutes after the game and wouldn't discuss the play at third base on Agee. "We got beat 3-2," he said, "That's all I've got to say."

The Twins pushed the winning run across in the eighth. Cesar Tovar and Tony Oliva opened with singles and worked the double steal after Harmon Killebrew struck out.

Bob Allison was intentionally walked and then Don Buford deflected Rich Rollins' bouncer to Ron Hansen, who forced Killebrew at second as Tovar scored.

Rollins drove in all three Minnesota runs and Agee homered for the White Sox.

Detroit got a three-run homer from light-hitting Ray Oyler to beat the Orioles. Oyler, batting .206, tagged his first homer of the season in the second inning after Al Kaline doubled and Jim Price walked.

Paul Blair and Curt Blefary touched winner Earl Wilson, 16-9, for homers. Rookie Fred Lasher finished up for the Tigers.

California won its fourth straight, with home runs by Jose Cardenal and Roger Repoz the big blows. Cardenal's inside-the-park shot led off the game for the Angels and Repoz connected against loser Jim Lonborg, 16-6 in the second inning.

Rico Petrocelli had a two-run shot for Boston with two out in the ninth, but Bill Kelso, the third Angel pitcher, came on to get the final out.

Bob Tillman drove in six runs -three on a ninth inning homer- and Horace Clarke and Ruben Amaro smacked four hits apiece as the Yankees beat the Indians. Max Alvis rapped a pair of home runs for Cleveland.

Frank Bertaina pitched a five-hitter as the Senators reached .500 again by beating the Athletics. Rick Monday's second inning error and singles by Bernie Allen and Ed Brinkman, provided all the runs Bertaina needed.

The Senators, in sixth place, are only six games behind the league leading Twins, and how's that for a pennant race?

Oran Caps SEMO Title

ORAN -- Tim Halter pitched and hit Oran's high school baseball Eagles past Scott County Central high for the SEMO high school baseball tournament championship Saturday night, 13-0.

The game was called at the end of four and one half innings because of a 10-run tournament rule.

Oran pushed six runners across home plate in the first sent two across in the second and concluded its scoring with five runs in the third.

Randy Boley was the losing hurler.

BELL CITY -- Action will continue tomorrow night in the SEMO baseball tournament after a busy weekend of games. At 7 p.m. the Benton aces meet New Hamburg Shindlers and at 8:30 p.m. the Benton Culls take on New Hamburg Blues.

Yesterday's slate had the Benton Culls taking a 6-2 win over Rose Con and Bell City Olivers coasting to a 7-0 victory over New Hamburg's Blues, on Don Robert's no-hitter.

John Watkins was the losing hurler in Saturday's only game, allowing five hits, including three by Kelso's Lonnie Dohogne.

Larry Steimle was the winner for the Benton Culls, allowing five hits. Larry Burton provided the batting power with three of Benton's five hits, a single, double and triple.

HERSHEY, Pa. AP -- Ollie Matson, one of the greatest professional football rushers of all time and a 14-year veteran of the NFL, announced his retirement from the Philadelphia Eagles.

Opening Football Practice For MSHSAA Member Schools

High school boys from approximately 410 Missouri schools will be beginning football practice for the 1967 season tomorrow, the first permissible practice date under MSHSAA regulations. On this date hundreds of high school boys will be issued football tags and coaches will be checking to make certain that each player has had his physical examination.

Early fall football practice is conducted during the warm and highly humid August weather and the MSHSAA strongly urges high school coaches to take every precaution to prevent athletic injuries. Heat fatigue dulls the athlete's skillful alertness and makes him more vulnerable to injury. Heat exhaustion and heat stroke can result in serious physical harm and even death; both are preventable.

Some of lettermen, will be missing due to participation in the Connie Mack baseball tournament at Lamar, Colo.

The squad will be bolstered by 10 returning lettermen and an abundance of junior high graduates and substitutes.

Dear Sir:

My letter concerns the conducting of the rodeo parade on Wednesday evening which for several of our churches is weekly prayer and Bible study.

We have read the various newspaper accounts of the riots and the anarchy which has recently prevailed in some of our cities. And on the home front we well remember reading of the meeting just a few weeks ago in which Mayor Sikes urged the ministers and churches to take a more active part in easing the tensions in and around Sikeston.

With a need for more stability in the moral fiber of our land why must those in charge allow a rodeo parade to rise above the importance of prayer and Bible study in the houses of God? Are the pleas of the political leaders for a "day of prayer" just pious platitudes or are they just plain blasphemous?

It was said of King Uzziah, an ancient King of Israel, that as long as he sought the Lord he was made to prosper. We believe it could also be said of our cities and churches if we made every effort to avoid conflicts with scheduled nights of prayer and Bible study.

Surely, it could help matters if, instead of a parade on Wednesday evenings, the leaders would urge each other to attend places of prayer.

Sincerely,
Glen D. Bohannon, Pastor

Red China Joins Nuclear Club

EDITOR'S NOTE— Unbidden but determined, Red China has become a full-fledged member of the nuclear club. Its pace in atomic weaponry, its politics, and its outlook all suggest profound and ominous consequences for the rest of the world. This is the last of three articles.

Soon Red China will have a finger on the button. Will she, by accident or design, launch a nuclear catastrophe?

For 18 years the United States and the Soviet Union have warily confronted each other with awesome nuclear arsenals but managed to preserve nuclear peace. They know what nuclear war could mean.

China, though still a fledgling member of the nuclear club, vastly alters the peace equation. Caught in the madness of the purge that Mao Tse-tung calls the cultural revolution, she is a puzzling X, perhaps even to herself.

Experts put many worried questions:

— Do Chinese leaders really know what a nuclear war could mean in human casualties and physical destruction?

— Suppose Red China donated a nuclear weapon to an Arab nation, out of a desire to make the Chinese dragon bigger than the Russian bear in the Middle East. Israel, some scientists say, "practically has the basic stuff lying around" to produce weapons in a few years. Might a new Middle East war some day be an atomic one?

— About 20 nations have the capability, some with little or no outside help, of building a nuclear weapon. Will Red China's success put pressure on those governments to produce such weapons?

— Is China really the "crazy, reckless, paranoid country" she appears to be to outsiders, or is her behavior just a passing phenomenon created by Mao's eagerness to shape Chinese into selfless robots?

Only Japan knows the horrors, first hand, of nuclear weapons. Those used against it were the first A-bombs, enormously destructive but still less powerful than H-bombs.

So deep was the Japanese shock that public opinion violently opposed building such weapons for a Japanese arsenal, and even slowed Japan's development of peaceful atomic power. But now Japan faces a cruel choice: to demand more protection from America— and perhaps from the Soviet Union too— or to gamble that she will not some day be a target of China.

Time has eroded memories of the full terror that the atomic bombs of 22 years ago brought to Hiroshima and Nagasaki. Perhaps more than half the world's population is too young to know much about it. Perhaps, some observers suggest, this fading memory figured in the relative calm with which Asian nations reacted to China's new power. There may be other reasons, too.

Some of the worry among China's neighbors— India, Japan, Burma, Australia, Malaysia, Indonesia— has been eased by the spectacle of Mao's cultural revolution, suggesting vast political, social and economic turmoil in China. Will the strife not eventually slow or even halt China's nuclear program?

It hasn't, up to now, and the chances seem to be that it will not.

Ten years ago some of China's scientists, including those returned from the United States, were caught in a Mao trap: the Hundred Flowers period, when Mao invited open criticism of his regime. The criticism came in a wave, and then Mao cracked down hard on the critics.

But important scientists got off lightly. Mao distrusted those who had been abroad long years, fearing that they had been contaminated by American and other foreign ideas. But Mao also needed them. They were required only to make routine formal confessions. Other intellectuals were forced into corrective labor for re-education.

And in the cultural revolution, Mao's supporters took care to insulate the important scientists. Rule 12 of the Aug. 8, 1966, communique that launched Mao's Red Guards, the storm troopers of political orthodoxy, took care to steer them clear of the scientists.

Still, the cultural revolution damaged China's prestige among underdeveloped nations, as did China's abortive diplomatic offensives in Africa and Asia. Perhaps, some Asians reasoned, China was so badly off balance that it could not risk any deep international trouble.

One top China watcher for the U.S. government speculated that "17 years of political infighting left the Chinese people bone-weary of it all; China watchers believe they are witnessing a change of dynasty. Great revisions may come."

But, if Mao's philosophy wins out, Asians will have to take another look.

Few doubt that China eventually will be the dominant power in Asia. It has the resources, and energetic, clever people. The ifs involve China's problems of food, population, education, training, industrialization, advances in science other than in the nuclear field, and, most of all, solving the present political chaos.

So far China has avoided direct involvement in Vietnam. China wants to give no excuse for an obliterative attack on her new nuclear installations.

But whatever happens, China is going to be a major problem, for both the United States and the Soviet Union.

In direct military threat, the United States seems to have little to fear from China until the mid-1970s.

For the United States, various experts agree, one consequence of China's nuclear march will be increased pressure to develop antiballistic missiles to intercept and destroy any incoming enemy missiles. The ABM cost to taxpayers could range anywhere from $4 billion to $70 billion, perhaps just as a starter, for limited defenses.

"It is no longer a question of whether to have them, but when," declares Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D.Wash., long a member of military and atomic energy committees. Others argue that ABMs will trigger a spiral in the arms race, forcing the Soviet Union to strengthen its striking force or expand its own ABMs.

Arguing against extensive ABM efforts now, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara says that probably "all we would accomplish would be to increase greatly both their defense expenditures and ours, without any gain in real security to either side."

Practical testing of ABMs could violate the limited nuclear treaty which bans atmospheric testing.

Chinese bombs affect Soviet thinking, too. A ban on ABM systems must be considered among "the whole range of questions relating to arms and disarmament," said Premier Alexei N. Kosygin just after China exploded her H-bomb.

China is an infuriating problem to Moscow. China's rulers claim to be the true Communists and denounce the Communist parties in the Soviet Union and elsewhere as "revisionist" betrayers of world revolution. China's feud with Moscow, aggravated by Peking's eagerness for nuclear arms, has ripped the fabric of world Communist unity to shreds.

Peking, calling the Soviet Union its enemy, has laid claim to 600,000 square miles of Soviet territory. The Chinese, with increasing frequency, stir up trouble on Soviet borders. Moscow pumps inflammatory propaganda into Chinese border provinces populated predominantly by non-Chinese people.

Since 1960, there has been no Soviet scientific help for China. But the experts say China still can spring surprises.

She can develop long-range rockets, they say, by brute engineering. A missile good enough to hit within five miles of an intended target could wipe out Moscow or Leningrad, or Los Angeles or San Francisco. But China, with her vast territory and primarily agrarian population, offers fewer strategic targets. Missiles aimed at China would have to pinpoint missile sites.

In any case, America's China policy is up for re-examination. The average American, looking at the situation, feels helpless, but there are glimpses of optimism.

"It's been a dangerous world for a long time," Sen. Jackson remarks. "But the cataclysmic nature of nuclear warfare has to be a restraining influence. It means destroying mankind. Nuclear weapons carry an enormous responsibility. Failure to understand the nature of nuclear war means annihilation."

He and others point out that the U.S.S.R. modified its stance as it grew more powerful, as its living standards rose, and it had more to lose from holocaust.

In the long view, says an authority on China, advances in technology and science and in satellite communications will tend to knit nations closer together. Nations cooperating with these advances know they can progress faster than nations which try to go it alone. Thus, there may be "a suction on China to join in on this."

Some hope the future will see a wearing down of "hard corners of truth," the beliefs that one country or one group has the absolute truth which others must accept.

My letter concerns the conducting of the rodeo parade on Wednesday evening which for several of our churches is weekly prayer and Bible study.
We have read the various newspaper accounts of the riots and the anarchy which has recently prevailed in some of our cities. And on the home front we well remember reading of the meeting just a few weeks ago in which Mayor Sikes urged the ministers and churches to take a more active part in easing the tensions in and around Sikeston.
With a need for more stability in the moral fiber of our land why must those in charge allow a rodeo parade to rise above the importance of prayer and Bible study in the houses of God? Are the pleas of the political leaders for a "day of prayer" just pious platitudes or are they just plain blasphemous?
It was said of King Uzziah, an ancient King of Israel, that as long as he sought the Lord he was made to prosper. We believe it could also be said of our cities and churches if we made every effort to avoid conflicts with scheduled nights of prayer and Bible study.
Surely, it could help matters if, instead of a parade on Wednesday evenings, the leaders would urge each other to attend places of prayer.

Sincerely,
Glen D. Bohannon, Pastor

Red China Joins Nuclear Club

EDITOR'S NOTE— Unbidden but determined, Red China has become a full-fledged member of the nuclear club. Its pace in atomic weaponry, its politics, and its outlook all suggest profound and ominous consequences for the rest of the world. This is the last of three articles.

Soon Red China will have a finger on the button. Will she, by accident or design, launch a nuclear catastrophe?

For 18 years the United States and the Soviet Union have warily confronted each other with awesome nuclear arsenals but managed to preserve nuclear peace. They know what nuclear war could mean.

China, though still a fledgling member of the nuclear club, vastly alters the peace equation. Caught in the madness of the purge that Mao Tse-tung calls the cultural revolution, she is a puzzling X, perhaps even to herself.

Experts put many worried questions:

— Do Chinese leaders really know what a nuclear war could mean in human casualties and physical destruction?

— Suppose Red China donated a nuclear weapon to an Arab nation, out of a desire to make the Chinese dragon bigger than the Russian bear in the Middle East. Israel, some scientists say, "practically has the basic stuff lying around" to produce weapons in a few years. Might a new Middle East war some day be an atomic one?

— About 20 nations have the capability, some with little or no outside help, of building a nuclear weapon. Will Red China's success put pressure on those governments to produce such weapons?

— Is China really the "crazy, reckless, paranoid country" she appears to be to outsiders, or is her behavior just a passing phenomenon created by Mao's eagerness to shape Chinese into selfless robots?

Only Japan knows the horrors, first hand, of nuclear weapons. Those used against it were the first A-bombs, enormously destructive but still less powerful than H-bombs.

So deep was the Japanese shock that public opinion violently opposed building such weapons for a Japanese arsenal, and even slowed Japan's development of peaceful atomic power. But now Japan faces a cruel choice: to demand more protection from America— and perhaps from the Soviet Union too— or to gamble that she will not some day be a target of China.

Time has eroded memories of the full terror that the atomic bombs of 22 years ago brought to Hiroshima and Nagasaki. Perhaps more than half the world's population is too young to know much about it. Perhaps, some observers suggest, this fading memory figured in the relative calm with which Asian nations reacted to China's new power. There may be other reasons, too.

Some of the worry among China's neighbors— India, Japan, Burma, Australia, Malaysia, Indonesia— has been eased by the spectacle of Mao's cultural revolution, suggesting vast political, social and economic turmoil in China. Will the strife not eventually slow or even halt China's nuclear program?

It hasn't, up to now, and the chances seem to be that it will not.

Ten years ago some of China's scientists, including those returned from the United States, were caught in a Mao trap: the Hundred Flowers period, when Mao invited open criticism of his regime. The criticism came in a wave, and then Mao cracked down hard on the critics.

But important scientists got off lightly. Mao distrusted those who had been abroad long years, fearing that they had been contaminated by American and other foreign ideas. But Mao also needed them. They were required only to make routine formal confessions. Other intellectuals were forced into corrective labor for re-education.

And in the cultural revolution, Mao's supporters took care to insulate the important scientists. Rule 12 of the Aug. 8, 1966, communique that launched Mao's Red Guards, the storm troopers of political orthodoxy, took care to steer them clear of the scientists.

Still, the cultural revolution damaged China's prestige among underdeveloped nations, as did China's abortive diplomatic offensives in Africa and Asia. Perhaps, some Asians reasoned, China was so badly off balance that it could not risk any deep international trouble.

One top China watcher for the U.S. government speculated that "17 years of political infighting left the Chinese people bone-weary of it all; China watchers believe they are witnessing a change of dynasty. Great revisions may come."

But, if Mao's philosophy wins out, Asians will have to take another look.

Few doubt that China eventually will be the dominant power in Asia. It has the resources, and energetic, clever people. The ifs involve China's problems of food, population, education, training, industrialization, advances in science other than in the nuclear field, and, most of all, solving the present political chaos.

So far China has avoided direct involvement in Vietnam. China wants to give no excuse for an obliterative attack on her new nuclear installations.

But whatever happens, China is going to be a major problem, for both the United States and the Soviet Union.

In direct military threat, the United States seems to have little to fear from China until the mid-1970s.

For the United States, various experts agree, one consequence of China's nuclear march will be increased pressure to develop antiballistic missiles to intercept and destroy any incoming enemy missiles. The ABM cost to taxpayers could range anywhere from $4 billion to $70 billion, perhaps just as a starter, for limited defenses.

"It is no longer a question of whether to have them, but when," declares Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D.Wash., long a member of military and atomic energy committees. Others argue that ABMs will trigger a spiral in the arms race, forcing the Soviet Union to strengthen its striking force or expand its own ABMs.

Arguing against extensive ABM efforts now, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara says that probably "all we would accomplish would be to increase greatly both their defense expenditures and ours, without any gain in real security to either side."

Practical testing of ABMs could violate the limited nuclear treaty which bans atmospheric testing.

Chinese bombs affect Soviet thinking, too. A ban on ABM systems must be considered among "the whole range of questions relating to arms and disarmament," said Premier Alexei N. Kosygin just after China exploded her H-bomb.

China is an infuriating problem to Moscow. China's rulers claim to be the true Communists and denounce the Communist parties in the Soviet Union and elsewhere as "revisionist" betrayers of world revolution. China's feud with Moscow, aggravated by Peking's eagerness for nuclear arms, has ripped the fabric of world Communist unity to shreds.

Peking, calling the Soviet Union its enemy, has laid claim to 600,000 square miles of Soviet territory. The Chinese, with increasing frequency, stir up trouble on Soviet borders. Moscow pumps inflammatory propaganda into Chinese border provinces populated predominantly by non-Chinese people.

Since 1960, there has been no Soviet scientific help for China. But the experts say China still can spring surprises.

She can develop long-range rockets, they say, by brute engineering. A missile good enough to hit within five miles of an intended target could wipe out Moscow or Leningrad, or Los Angeles or San Francisco. But China, with her vast territory and primarily agrarian population, offers fewer strategic targets. Missiles aimed at China would have to pinpoint missile sites.

In any case, America's China policy is up for re-examination. The average American, looking at the situation, feels helpless, but there are glimpses of optimism.

"It's been a dangerous world for a long time," Sen. Jackson remarks. "But the cataclysmic nature of nuclear warfare has to be a restraining influence. It means destroying mankind. Nuclear weapons carry an enormous responsibility. Failure to understand the nature of nuclear war means annihilation."

He and others point out that the U.S.S.R. modified its stance as it grew more powerful, as its living standards rose, and it had more to lose from holocaust.

In the long view, says an authority on China, advances in technology and science and in satellite communications will tend to knit nations closer together. Nations cooperating with these advances know they can progress faster than nations which try to go it alone. Thus, there may be "a suction on China to join in on this."

Some hope the future will see a wearing down of "hard corners of truth," the beliefs that one country or one group has the absolute truth which others must accept.

Bells, Clock Installed In Churchill Memorial

A large four-faced clock, made to the specifications of the clock destroyed by a German air raid in World War II, will be installed in the spire of the seventeenth centure church, now in its final months of restoration.

The great bells, the clock and the tower are the gift of Mrs. V. H. McNutt as a memorial to the late Missouri physician, Dr. W. B. A. McNutt, as alumnus of Westminster College.

The bells were cast at the 300-year-old foundry of Petit & Fritzen of Aarle-Rixtel, Holland and special strikers and electrical equipment was supplied by the I. T. Verdin Company of Cincinnati.

The largest bell weighs 1,408 pounds and they range down to 290 pounds.

When the exterior scaffolding is removed from the tower the church, which is the focal point of the Memorial, will look virtually completed on the exterior. Interior plastering has been completed, but woodpaneling and painting will take several months.

Twenty-one years have passed since Winston Churchill journeyed to the campus of Westminster College for his historic address on the "Sinews of Peace." There he delivered his prophetic warning against an ominous turn in the foreign policy of the Soviet Union. There, for the first time, the phrase "Iron Curtain" was spoken.

Since the twelfth century a Church of St. Mary Aldermanbury has rested on a corner of the wall which defended the Old City of London in Roman times. There, in 1656, poet John Milton was married. William Shakespeare lived only a few streets away. His fellow actors, John Heminge and Henry Condell, who published his "First Folio," were active church wardens.

The Great Fire of 1966 destroyed the Old City, Sir Christopher Wren, was commissioned to reconstruct St. Mary Aldermanbury. Under his direct supervision, the church was completely rebuild using the original medieval materials for the interior walls and limestone for the exterior. In the blitz of London in 1941, it was again damaged, this time by a Nazi incendiary bomb.

The church had been destined for destruction, since it no longer served a parish--vast industrial and commercial developments had altered the surrounding neighborhood. Yet this shell of a church, still preserving the distinctive grace of Wren's design, will survive as a tribute to his genius; as a visible testimony to the days when Britain and her people stood alone against the forces of tyranny; as a symbol of the heroic resistance led by war-time Prime Minister -- Winston Churchill

LONDON (AP) — Notes from swinging London. The gambling casino is still advertised as George Raft's Colony, even though its onetime host is barred from Britain as undesirable. The Beverly Hillbillies are filming background shots all around London town. Another arrival is Red Skelton, here for segments with a symphony orchestra playing his compositions.

American tourists, accustomed to free movies on cross-country flights, are jolted by the $2.50 charge across the Atlantic. Seen in the Hotel Dorchster lobby: Sean Connery with long hair for a Western he plans to film in Mexico. Ray Milland arrived to direct an English movie.

Deborah Kerr recovered from an ear ailment and rejoined the cast of "Prudence and the Pill." Rare theater experience: watching Sir Ralph Richardson romp through "The Rivals" at the Haymarket. Isobel Jeans has replaced Margaret Rutherford in the play— the Academy Award winner became unable to remember the malaprops.

Spotted in a cozy corner of L'Etoile restaurant: Hayley Mills and her 53-year-old director-boyfriend, Roy Boulting. "Fiddler on the Roof" is a big hit at Her Majesty's theater, and some say Israeli comic Topol is the best to play the leading role yet.

Their associates suspect the Beatles will never get together on another movie. The Monkees have made a dent in England, but mostly with the subteen set. Explicit sign on a movie stage: "You must enter the stage quietly—do not let the door bang." Agatha Christie's "The Mousetrap" is being advertised in its "15th unashamed year" at the Ambassadors Theater.

BBC has begun experimenting with color prior to its official start of color programming Dec. 2. Color sets are scarce, and they cost about $800 to buy or $5.60 per week rental. There are an estimated 1,000 sets in England today.

Britons Bid For Musical Film Toehold

LONDON (AP) — The English film industry is tuning up for competition in the musical film, which traditionally has been a Hollywood monopoly.

America's pre-eminence in the musical is being threatened by three major projects which will test whether England can match Hollywood's skill in this art form. The first was "Half a Sixpence," starring Tommy Steele and a British cast and directed by an American, George Sidney— "Anchors Aweigh," "Pepe".

"Half a Sixpence" ran into problems that extended the schedule to six months. But Paramount is high on its chances and has planned 2 roads how release. Two new musical projects recently have started shooting in studios outside London. One is Columbia's "Oliver" based on the London and Broadway hit taken from Dickens' "Oliver Twist." The other is United Artists' "Chitty Chitty Bang Bang," from the Ian Fleming story for children.

"Oliver" is being directed at Shepperton Studio by Carol Reed. He is a curious choice for a musical, having specialized in dramas— "The Third Man," "The Fallen Idol".

"But I did direct a few musicals starring Jessie Matthews before the war," he said. Except for minor musicals starring Miss Matthews and Anna Neagle, England has produced few tunefilms over the years.

Reed was asked why.

"It has been largely a matter of economies," he explained.

"Musicals are very expensive to make. They require large staffs, long rehearsals and pre-recording sessions before the picture begins. We simply couldn't afford to lavish the money."

American money has solved that problem. Columbia will spend an estimated $14 million on "Oliver" which stars Ron Moody, Shani Wallis, Harry Secombe and Hugh Griffith.

"Chitty Chitty Bang Bang" is budgeted for $28 million, and United Artists appears hopeful that it will be another "Mary Poppins." The new film also boasts the services of Dick Van Dyke as star and the Sherman brothers as song writers.

Producers of British-made films are rebated part of their costs from a fund supported by theater admission taxes. Brocoli said the government and the unions allowed him to hire American musical personnel above the usual quota.

"The authorities wanted a break-through for the musical film in England, and so they gave us certain concessions," the producer reported.

Britons Bid For Musical Film Toehold

LONDON (AP) — The English film industry is tuning up for competition in the musical film, which traditionally has been a Hollywood monopoly.

America's pre-eminence in the musical is being threatened by three major projects which will test whether England can match Hollywood's skill in this art form. The first was "Half a Sixpence," starring Tommy Steele and a British cast and directed by an American, George Sidney — "Anchors Aweigh," "Pepe".

"Half a Sixpence" ran into problems that extended the schedule to six months. But Paramount is high on its chances and has planned 2 roads how release. Two new musical projects recently have started shooting in studios outside London. One is Columbia's "Oliver" based on the London and Broadway hit taken from Dickens' "Oliver Twist." The other is United Artists' "Chitty Chitty Bang Bang," from the Ian Fleming story for children.

"Oliver" is being directed at Shepperton Studio by Carol Reed. He is a curious choice for a musical, having specialized in dramas — "The Third Man," "The Fallen Idol".

"But I did direct a few musicals starring Jessie Matthews before the war," he said. Except for minor musicals starring Miss Matthews and Anne Neagle, England has produced few tunefilms over the years.

Reed was asked why.

"It has been largely a matter of economics," he explained.

"Musicals are very expensive to make. They require large staffs, long rehearsals and pre-recording sessions before the picture begins. We simply couldn't afford to lavish the money."

American money has solved that problem. Columbia will spend an estimated $14 million on "Oliver" which stars Ron Moody, Shani Wallis, Harry Secombe and Hugh Griffith.

"Chitty Chitty Bang Bang" is budgeted for $28 million, and United Artists appears hopeful that it will be another "Mary Poppins." The new film also boasts the services of Dick Van Dyke as star and the Sherman brothers as song writers.

Producers of British-made films are related part of their costs from a fund supported by theater admission taxes. Brocoli said the government and the unions allowed him to hire American musical personnel above the usual quota.

"The authorities wanted a break-through for the musical film in England, and so they gave us certain concessions," the producer reported.

FINDING THE WAY

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

I have three brothers and the four of us enjoy the infrequent reunions when we can recount the escapades of growing up. Scattered in various parts of the country, we try to find at least an annual moment when we can see each other. Why should anyone think it extraordinary if four brothers enjoy seeing one another and sharing their experiences? Why praise brothers for being brothers?

In the city in which I live eight pastors—Protestant, Roman Catholic, Orthodox and Jewish—have been meeting, sharing a fellowship and sponsoring a whole host of interfaith activities. People watching, frequently comment on the excellence of this fellowship, as though it were necessary to praise brothers for being brothers.

This is the illustration of the danger now being confronted by the bold ecumenical movement. When Pope John threw open the windows for fresh breezes to course through the Christian world, it was possible for that which had been only a Protestant fellowship to become a more truly ecumenical brotherhood. What has happened in recent years has erupted with revolutionary swiftness and encouraging climax.

Just here is the danger. Our problem is that we shall settle for respectability, with just being nice to one another as an ultimate goal instead of a preliminary step. The work we are sent to do is to witness in the world where the problems are tougher than ever.

List some of the dangers confronting mankind and they add up to the presence of war, the loss of coexistence between nations, a growing gulf between the "haves" and the "have-nots," the horrible poverty among so many peoples and the unabated trend toward overpopulation. Add to these confusing and threatening problems, the indifference and the amoral selfishness and the broad outlines of some of mankind's most fearful problems are indicated.

It's a time to tackle these with imagination, with risk and with bravery. The critics of the churches have been saying that not enough of us are willing to do this. And they may be right. Certainly, we will not solve problems by shying away from them. As brothers we are meant to recognize a larger brotherhood.

It's a time to accept brotherhood as natural and then be disturbed enough by what we see around us to work together to meet the needs and yearnings of mankind. Ecumenical brotherhood is only a necessary step in the right direction.

That is best achieved by a common witness that doesn't settle for a private fellowship but struggles together for the larger familyhood.

Beaird Comes to Aid of Forrestal

USS INTREPID -- Navy Airman Winford L. Beaird, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell A. Beaird of 1013 Applegate St., Sikeston, Mo., was a crew member aboard the anti-submarine warfare support aircraft carrier USS Intrepid when the ship went to the aid of the carrier USS Forrestal.

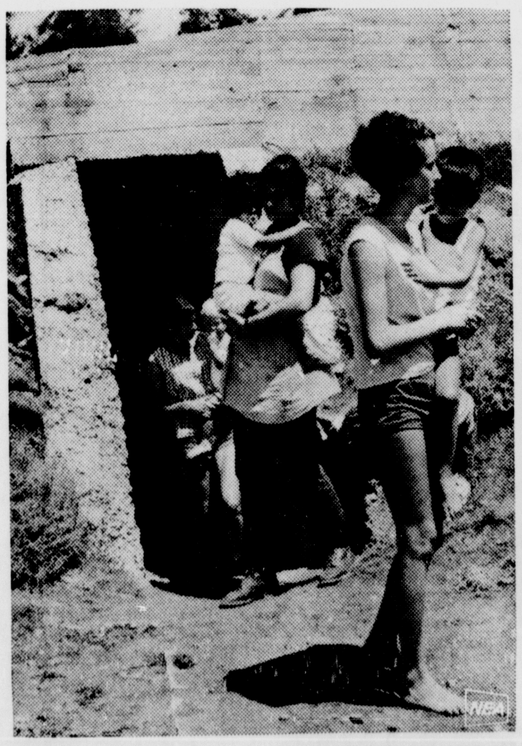

The Forrestal, operating on station in the Gulf of Tonkin, was damaged when a fuel tank on a plane, preparing to take off, dropped, spewing burning gasoline on the flight and hangar decks.

Highway Prank Takes Motorist's Life

SALEM, N.H. (AP) — Three water-filled bags dropped from a bridge over Interstate 93 shortly before midnight Sunday broke the windshield of a passing car, and the driver was killed when broken glass cut his throat.

Dead is Paul Bujeaud, 19, of Lincoln. Police said he managed to stop the car before he died.

Three other persons in the car were not hurt.

Music to Read by

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)— The library whisper and the quiet clap of closing books may soon give way to the sound of soft music in a Pennsylvania State University library.

School officials are installing a sound system to pipe tape recorded music into selected areas of the undergraduate wing of Pattee Library. The system should be ready when the fall term begins next month.

The music is a selection of popular show tunes and light classics, specially scored to be unobtrusive by eliminating peaks of high or low notes. The idea is to overcome distracting noise.

WHERE DO YOU BUY

A WATER WELL?

How do you go about "buying a well?"

This question isn't as quaint as it sounds. About one-fourth of the American people or 10 million families depend entirely upon individual wells for their water. They live on farms, in the suburbs and in rural nonfarm areas beyond municipal water mains.

But they're not the only ones who might be interested in buying a well, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau points out. At least 50,000 wells are drilled each year to provide SUPPLEMENTARY water in areas where use of municipal water is curtailed during drought.

The modern water well is more properly called an "individual water system." The pump has an electric motor and, in home installations, is likely to be put in the well, where you can't see or hear it. The well itself is seldom over four inches in diameter. The water is pumped into a storage tank. From there, it's piped to the various appliances in the house. Controls regulate the pump, which goes on and off automatically when water in the tank reaches a predetermined level.

The modern well thus is really a complete water system in miniature. To "buy" one, you have to go to a licensed man who knows local codes, water tables and other geological facts and who qualifies as an installation expert. He may operate under the name of well driller, water system specialist or as a plumbing contractor who also specializes in water systems.

If you'd like more information about home water systems, send 15 cents in coin to the Ground Water Resources Institute, 205 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. 60606. Ask for 'How Water Wells Can Help You Solve Your Water Problems -- Easily and Economically!"

WARNER BROS. PAYS

$1,000,000-PLUS

The nation's #1 bestselling novel, "The Arrangement," slated to be an Avon paperback in 1968, will become a Warner Bros. motion picture, produced and directed by the author, Elia Kazan. Warner Bros. will pay the Academy Award winning director $500,000 for screen rights, $500,000 to produce and direct the movie, and up to 50% of the film's profits -- making "The Arrangement" one of the highest priced purchases in film history.

"The Arrangement," Mr. Kazan's first novel, was published by Stein and Day in February, 1967, and was selected then by the Literary Guild. On publication, the book immediately climbed to the top of all bestseller lists where it still remains after eighteen weeks. Avon Books had purchased reprint rights to "The Arrangement" two months before publication and first scheduled the paperback release for early Spring, 1968; but, because of the immediate success and the still strong sales of the hardcover edition, Avon will delay publication until late Spring or later in 1968. The release date of the movie is also still to be announced.

OUTDOOR LIVING

If you're planning a backyard patio for outdoor relaxation and informal entertaining, why not include a sink with hot and cold water and a drinking fountain, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. They will make both entertaining and cleanup easier. The fountain will keep children from running in and out of the kitchen all day for drinks of water.

Figures and heads that adorned the prows of sailing ships were probably the first known form of Early American sculpture. FINDING THE WAY

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

I have three brothers and the four of us enjoy the infrequent reunions when we can recount the escapades of growing up. Scattered in various parts of the country, we try to find at least an annual moment when we can see each other. Why should anyone think it extraordinary if four brothers enjoy seeing one another and sharing their experiences? Why praise brothers for being brothers?

In the city in which I live eight pastors—Protestant, Roman Catholic, Orthodox and Jewish—have been meeting, sharing a fellowship and sponsoring a whole host of interfaith activities. People watching, frequently comment on the excellence of this fellowship, as though it were necessary to praise brothers for being brothers.

This is the illustration of the danger now being confronted by the bold ecumenical movement. When Pope John threw open the windows for fresh breezes to course through the Christian world, it was possible for that which had been only a Protestant fellowship to become a more truly ecumenical brotherhood. What has happened in recent years has erupted with revolutionary swiftness and encouraging climax.

Just here is the danger. Our problem is that we shall settle for respectability, with just being nice to one another as an ultimate goal instead of a preliminary step. The work we are sent to do is to witness in the world where the problems are tougher than ever.

List some of the dangers confronting mankind and they add up to the presence of war, the loss of coexistence between nations, a growing gulf between the "haves" and the "have-nots," the horrible poverty among so many peoples and the unabated trend toward overpopulation. Add to these confusing and threatening problems, the indifference and the amoral selfishness and the broad outlines of some of mankind's most fearful problems are indicated.

It's a time to tackle these with imagination, with risk and with bravery. The critics of the churches have been saying that not enough of us are willing to do this. And they may be right. Certainly, we will not solve problems by shying away from them. As brothers we are meant to recognize a larger brotherhood.

It's a time to accept brotherhood as natural and then be disturbed enough by what we see around us to work together to meet the needs and yearnings of mankind. Ecumenical brotherhood is only a necessary step in the right direction.

That is best achieved by a common witness that doesn't settle for a private fellowship but struggles together for the larger familyhood.

Beaird Comes to Aid of Forrestal

USS INTREPID -- Navy Airman Winford L. Beaird, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell A. Beaird of 1013 Applegate St., Sikeston, Mo., was a crew member aboard the anti-submarine warfare support aircraft carrier USS Intrepid when the ship went to the aid of the carrier USS Forrestal.

The Forrestal, operating on station in the Gulf of Tonkin, was damaged when a fuel tank on a plane, preparing to take off, dropped, spewing burning gasoline on the flight and hangar decks.

Highway Prank Takes Motorist's Life

SALEM, N.H. (AP) — Three water-filled bags dropped from a bridge over Interstate 93 shortly before midnight Sunday broke the windshield of a passing car, and the driver was killed when broken glass cut his throat.

Dead is Paul Bujeaud, 19, of Lincoln. Police said he managed to stop the car before he died.

Three other persons in the car were not hurt.

Music to Read by

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)— The library whisper and the quiet clap of closing books may soon give way to the sound of soft music in a Pennsylvania State University library.

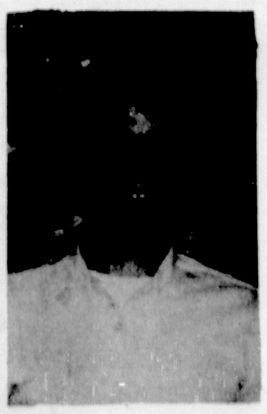

School officials are installing a sound system to pipe tape recorded music into selected areas of the undergraduate wing of Pattee Library. The system should be ready when the fall term begins next month.

The music is a selection of popular show tunes and light classics, specially scored to be unobtrusive by eliminating peaks of high or low notes. The idea is to overcome distracting noise.

Irish to Be Honored at Capital Fete

JEFFERSON CITY -- Two men of Irish lineage, both of whom became midwestern secretaries of state, are principals at a testimonial dinner Sept. 8.

They are James C. Kirkpatrick, Missouri secretary of state, the honoree at the $25-a-plate affair, and Joseph L. Donovan, Minnesota secretary of state, the speaker.

Ben F. Weir of Nevada and D. Jeff Lance of St. Louis, co-chairmen of the testimonial affair, said this week that ticket sales indicate the Kirkpatrick dinner is headed for a sellout.

Ground Broken for $1.6 Million Airport

COLUMBIA, Mo., (AP)— Ground was broken Friday for Columbia's $1.6 million airport at a site 11 miles south of here.

George D. Nickolaus said the new airport, to be known as Elmhurst Airport, will make Columbia accessible to other world cities within hours.

Construction of the 6,500-foot runway began immediately after the ceremony. It is expected to be completed next June. Construction of a terminal building is expected to begin in October.

WHERE DO YOU BUY A WATER WELL?

How do you go about "buying a well?"

This question isn't as quaint as it sounds. About one-fourth of the American people or 10 million families depend entirely upon individual wells for their water. They live on farms, in the suburbs and in rural nonfarm areas beyond municipal water mains.

But they're not the only ones who might be interested in buying a well, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau points out. At least 50,000 wells are drilled each year to provide SUPPLEMENTARY water in areas where use of municipal water is curtailed during drought.

The modern water well is more properly called an "individual water system."The pump has an electric motor and, in home installations, is likely to be put in the well, where you can't see or hear it. The well itself is seldom over four inches in diameter. The water is pumped into a storage tank. From there, it's piped to the various appliances in the house. Controls regulate the pump, which goes on and off automatically when water in the tank reaches a predetermined level.

The modern well thus is really a complete water system in miniature. To "buy" one, you have to go to a licensed man who knows local codes, water tables and other geological facts and who qualifies as an installation expert. He may operate under the name of well driller, water system specialist or as a plumbing contractor who also specializes in water systems.

If you'd like more information about home water systems, send 15 cents in coin to the Ground Water Resources Institute, 205 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. 60606. Ask for 'How Water Wells Can Help You Solve Your Water Problems -- Easily and Economically!"

WARNER BROS. PAYS $1,000,000-PLUS

The nation's #1 bestselling novel, "The Arrangement," slated to be an Avon paperback in 1968, will become a Warner Bros. motion picture, produced and directed by the author, Elia Kazan. Warner Bros. will pay the Academy Award winning director $500,000 for screen rights, $500,000 to produce and direct the movie, and up to 50% of the film's profits -- making "The Arrangement" one of the highest priced purchases in film history.

"The Arrangement," Mr. Kazan's first novel, was published by Stein and Day in February, 1967, and was selected then by the Literary Guild. On publication, the book immediately climbed to the top of all bestseller lists where it still remains after eighteen weeks. Avon Books had purchased reprint rights to "The Arrangement" two months before publication and first scheduled the paperback release for early Spring, 1968; but, because of the immediate success and the still strong sales of the hardcover edition, Avon will delay publication until late Spring or later in 1968. The release date of the movie is also still to be announced.

HERE'S HELP ON HOME PLUMBING CARE

Planning to make some repairs around the house this summer? A booklet titled "Plumbing Care & Repair" tells you how to keep your plumbing in good working condition, how to make certain repairs yourself, and what jobs should be left strictly to qualified plumbing contractors. It's available for 25 cents from the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, 35 E. Wacker Dr., Chicago 60601.

ENTERTAINMENT SINK ENHANCES OUTDOOR LIVING

If you're planning a backyard patio for outdoor relaxation and informal entertaining, why not include a sink with hot and cold water and a drinking fountain, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. They will make both entertaining and cleanup easier. The fountain will keep children from running in and out of the kitchen all day for drinks of water.

Figures and heads that adorned the prows of sailing ships were probably the first known form of Early American sculpture. As the use of sailing ships declined, these artisans turned to sculpting cigar store Indians. Early American sculpture can be viewed at the Harold Warp Pioneer Village in south central Nebraska.

maximum, sensible cooperation between them achieves most benefit for all; to eliminate all present or future fear and insure the rebirth of our own self-respect and freedoms, we hereby declare the causes that impel us to action.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, the right to honest work wherever, whenever and for whom they please, without any restrictions or compulsory demands or dictates of any kind or nature, and the pursuit of happiness free from coercions and fears of withheld work, bodily harm to self and loved ones, and destruction of homes or other property.

That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the CONSENT OF THE GOVERNED.

That unions in our America have come into being and grown like Topsy, without constitutional law laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form as to them (union members) shall seem most likely to effect their freedom, safety and happiness.

All experience hath shewn that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But, when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty to throw off such yoke and to provide new guards for their future security.

We therefore, the union members of each and every one of our fifty states, do hereby petition to all United States senators and representatives of both parties for our respective states and signed hereby for our first approval, and after so approved by the majority of us, be processed into the law of our land for our protection and the best interests of all segments of our society, which interwoven together will insure our future freedoms:

1. Provide for the election of all union officers by free and secret ballots. Provide for dues assessments and expenditures only by free and secret ballots.

2. Provide for effective recall and ouster proceedings for officers who misuse their powers.

3. Provide for fiduciary restraints upon union pensions and any and all other union funds as exacting as those set upon bankers and any other managers of other peoples' money, with insurance bonds to cover any defalcations.

4. Provide for annual audits and full public knowledge of all receipts and expenditures. We (the union members) are a large segment of the public and never more want to be shocked or ashamed of what is done with our savings and money in any funds.

5. Provide heavy penalties against anyone or more who are convicted of threatening, coercing or harming the person or any relative of any union member of damaging in any way any of his personal or real property.

6. Realizing the terrific job of truly democratizing our unions in the mess too many of us, the degradation and frustration of being cowed and afraid, we request that there be included in our news laws a federal right-to-work chapter, forbiding compulsory membership in any union. The vast majority of us will choose and join the unions of our choice in the areas where we work and where we are satisfied. We do not ever want to be forced into any union foreign to our knowlege or control. We want our inalienable right and freedom to join or not to join the local unions where we work or any other union anywhere.

7. Last, but not least, include anti-trust provisions restricting any and all union officials from negating any of the foregoing, and positivie elimination of all powers to stop, close or in any way tie up plants, industries, transportation or public facilities nationwide or over large areas of our country, which cost our union workers billions of lost dollars and can prostrate our America and make it a sitting duck for any sneak attack by an ambitious Russia.

Ann Landers

Children Lucky to Have Affectionate Fathers

Dear Ann Landers: Tears filled my eyes when I read the letter from the 16-year-old girl who complained because her father hugged and kissed her too much. She said it was embarrassing.

That girl doesn't know how lucky she is. I would have given anything if my father had kissed me even once a month. I really shouldn't blame him too much because he was almost 35 when he married Mom and he didn't know how to show affection to small children, although he had four of his own. Dad died three years ago. I was 15. I cherish the memory of the few hellos and good-bye kisses he did give me.

I hope every father who reads this letter will ask himself when was the last time he kissed his children -- yes, boys, too. They need affection as much as girls. There isn't enough love in the world today, and the place to learn how to give and receive love is at home. --- RALEIGH MISS.

Dear Miss: You are unusually wise and perceptive for an 18-year-old. And you have a forgiving heart, too, which is good. I hope the fathers in my reading audience will take inventory. Was Miss Raleigh speaking to you?

Dear Ann Landers: My husband sold his business a few years ago and retired. We are not wealthy, but we have a nice income from past investments, plus Social Security.

I have always handled the money in the family. My husband doesn't know what it is to pay a bill. I also helped him in his business and paid the company bills as well.

Now that we are entering our golden years we should be relaxed, but we aren't. My husband is driving me crazy because I am not able to save any money. He keeps asking, "Where does it all go?"

I have tried to explain that the cost of living has gone up, taxes are up, club memberships are up, and we can't drive a car free.

We have not touched our principal. We live on interest and Social Security, but he still hollers, "Everyone should save something." Will you please give him an answer? --- TIRED IN TOLEDO

Dear Tired: He doesn't want an answer. He'd rather holler. It's probably his best form of recreation since he retired.

Start next month to keep an itemized account of every dime you spend. When he starts yelling, hand him the list. That should settle his hash.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 16-year-old boy who may be killed by his mother one of these days. I know she would never forgive herself, but I'd be dead just the same.

It is my job to empty the wastebaskets and the trash. My mother is always throwing aerosol cans into the wastebaskets. When I burn the trash the cans explode. Sometimes two or three cans explode in a row, and it shounds like a sonic boom.

I have read of people getting killed by these things and I don't want it to happen to me. I've told my mother three times to please keep the aerosol cans out of the wastebaskets, but she forgets. What can I do? SHOCKED

Dear Shocked: You can stop depending on your mother and sort out the trash yourself, Bub.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

There are only two pathways-only two steps for those millions of fine Americans (our union workers) to select.

First, do nothing - coast - do everything your uncontrolled leaders tell you to do - vote for those uncontrolled congressmen they recommend, thereby speeding the date of our total control under an ISM government from which dwindling purchasing power, handouts and doles to all of us will be gall and hell on earth.

Or, second, by the millions decide to throw off your yoke of servitude to uncontrolled leaders, demand from Congress your own Constitution, select and elect leaders who should and will be your servants, vote your own choice of congressmen whom you think best for America. Get control of your union destiny back in your grasp, and cooperate with all other segments of our society, which have also forfeited so much of their freedom, so that all of us, united, will have the best chance-maybe our last chance - of saving our Republic - our America.

It is up to the union members (the people). Let everything slide down the road toward more and more loss of your freedoms, or cooperatively, by millions, petition all national senators and representatives in your respective states under your Declaration of Independence and request that your Union Constitution be written into the law of our land.

If You Were the Judge

Man, Who Thought He Could Fly, Collects

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

Marty, "vacationing" at a mental hospital, got out on a third story window ledge and put a wet finger up to test the wind currents. Then, flapping his arms, he jumped. To Marty's surprise, he discovered he couldn't fly. And, while he wasn't hurt by the fall, the sudden stop on landing nearly killed him. In due course, he sued the hospital for his damaged fusillage.

"They should have kept an eye on me," he complained to the judge. "They knew I was nuts."

"We did the best we could," was the hospital's defense. "But, Marty sneaked into another patient's room and took off from there. While he was deluded, we were eluded."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the hospital pay for Marty's crash landing?

This is how the judge ruled: Marty collected. The judge held that while a hospital does not insure the safety of its patients, it must exercise reasonable care to safeguard a patient from dangers due to a mental incapacity. In this case, concluded the judge, Marty should have been kept under a more weathered eye.

Letters to the Editor

EDITOR BLANTON
TO UNION WORKERS

These thoughts are addressed to our millions of working men and women who, as a whole, represent one of our finest segments of American citizens.

The vast majority would give their lives to protect America, their homes and loved ones in any war threatening our freedoms. Here are millions of our folks who together can increase their effectiveness a thousandfold in a comparatively short freedoms and insure the enjoyment of same by our children and grandchildren.

History is jammed with names of men, groups of men, parties and coalitions, all imbued with unholy ambition to control as many people as possible and enjoy therefrom the power, prestige and material wealth wrung from the toil, sweat, tears, suffering and frustration of the many. History is repeating itself in America, and we have allowed control over us to reach an all-time high.

Why, oh why, must men and women, especially in our enlightened America, become so satisfied with our luxurious living that we forget to THINK, to ACT for ourselves and, by pure forefeiture to unscrupulous and power-hungry pied pipers, gradually lose our freedoms?

Our country is still supposed to be a government "of the people, by the people and for the people." In proportion to our (the people's) apathy, laziness and do-nothing attitudes to keep our freedoms, we are gradually losing our control to bureaucratic minorities.

Now, why do I elaborate so much about these thoughts in a chapter on union workers? It is because the time is long past due for union workers to draft their own Declaration of Independence, Constitution, and Bill of Rights. Until they do, they will never enjoy UNIONS OF THE MEMBERS, by the members and for the members. It will be a job for the majority of union workers and all of them will have to change from lethargic apathy and, in some areas, fear, to militant fighters. For too long union members have allowed the mushrooming of bureaucratic and, in many instances, mob control to gain a stronger and stronger stranglehold over their lives and those of their families.

Of course we know that there are good unions, staffed by patriotic, honest, efficient men, working tirelessly for the members of their unions. The big reward these men enjoy is the good they can do for others. They are not interested in Napoleonic power or materialistic gains at the expense of their union members. They know too that the labor unions are just one segment of our society, and that cooperative meshing with other segments secures more benefits, present and future, for their members and America as a whole.

However, we can never forget that there are always unscrupulous, ambitious men scheming and planning to control the masses.

Our Founding Fathers knew this only too well. That is why they drafted our Constitution with to the maximum, protect us from future ambitious tyrants.

There never was a better time or climate to incorporate into the laws of our land a Constitution for Union Members. It is just as necessary, as were our Anti-Trust Laws of years ago, to curb and hold down excesses of power in the employer segment of our society.

Let us pattern our Union Members' Declaration of Independence from that of our United States.

When in the course of time it becomes necessary for a large segment of a free people to throw off the increasing bonds of increasing, unscrupulous, controlling minorities; to fully democratize our segment of society and insure future free democracy; to bring back a decent respect for the other segments of the society of our great America, with renewed understanding that each and every segment of our society is dependent upon each other, and maximum, sensible cooperation between them achieves most benefit for all; to eliminate all present or future fear and insure the rebirth of our own self-respect and freedoms, we hereby declare the causes that impel us to action.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, the right to honest work wherever, whenever and for whom they please, without any restrictions or compulsory demands or dictates of any kind or nature, and the pursuit of happiness free from coercions and fears of withheld work, bodily harm to self and loved ones, and destruction of homes or other property.

That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the CONSENT OF THE GOVERNED.

That unions in our America have come into being and grown like Topsy, without constitutional law laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form as to them (union members) shall seem most likely to effect their freedom, safety and happiness.

All experience hath shewn that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But, when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty to throw off such yoke and to provide new guards for their future security.

We therefore, the union members of each and every one of our fifty states, do hereby petition to all United States senators and representatives of both parties for our respective states and signed hereby for our first approval, and after so approved by the majority of us, be processed into the law of our land for our protection and the best interests of all segments of our society, which interwoven together will insure our future freedoms:

1. Provide for the election of all union officers by free and secret ballots. Provide for dues assessments and expenditures only by free and secret ballots.

2. Provide for effective recall and ouster proceedings for officers who misuse their powers.

3. Provide for fiduciary restraints upon union pensions and any and all other union funds as exacting as those set upon bankers and any other managers of other peoples' money, with insurance bonds to cover any defalcations.

4. Provide for annual audits and full public knowledge of all receipts and expenditures. We (the union members) are a large segment of the public and never-more want to be shocked or ashamed of what is done with our savings and money in any funds.

5. Provide heavy penalties against anyone or more who are convicted of threatening, coercing or harming the person or any relative of any union member of damaging in any way any of his personal or real property.

6. Realizing the terrific job of truly democratizing our unions in the mess too many of us, the degradation and frustration of being cowed and afraid, we request that there be included in our news laws a federal right-to-work chapter, forbiding compulsory membership in any union. The vast majority of us will choose and join the unions of our choice in the areas where we work and where we are satisfied. We do not ever want to be forced into any union foreign to our knowlege or control. We want our inalienable right and freedom to join or not to join the local unions where we work or any other union anywhere.

7. Last, but not least, include anti-trust provisions restricting any and all union officials from negating any of the foregoing, and positivie elimination of all powers to stop, close or in any way tie up plants, industries, transportation or public facilities nationwide or over large areas of our country, which cost our union workers billions of lost dollars and can prostrate our America and make it a sitting duck for any sneak attack by an ambitious Russia.

A MESSAGE
TO UNION WORKERS

These thoughts are addressed to our millions of working men and women who, as a whole, represent one of our finest segments of American citizens.

The vast majority would give their lives to protect America, their homes and loved ones in any war threatening our freedoms. Here are millions of our folks who together can increase their effectiveness a thousandfold in a comparatively short freedoms and insure the enjoyment of same by our children and grandchildren.

History is jammed with names of men, groups of men, parties and coalitions, all imbued with unholy ambition to control as many people as possible and enjoy therefrom the power, prestige and material wealth wrung from the toil, sweat, tears, suffering and frustration of the many. History is repeating itself in America, and we have allowed control over us to reach an all-time high.

Why, oh why, must men and women, especially in our enlightened America, become so satisfied with our luxurious living that we forget to THINK, to ACT for ourselves and, by pure forefeiture to unscrupulous and power-hungry pied pipers, gradually lose our freedoms?

Our country is still supposed to be a government "of the people, by the people and for the people." In proportion to our (the people's) apathy, laziness and do-nothing attitudes to keep our freedoms, we are gradually losing our control to bureaucratic minorities.

Now, why do I elaborate so much about these thoughts in a chapter on union workers? It is because the time is long past due for union workers to draft their own Declaration of Independence, Constitution, and Bill of Rights. Until they do, they will never enjoy UNIONS OF THE MEMBERS, by the members and for the members. It will be a job for the majority of union workers and all of them will have to change from lethargic apathy and, in some areas, fear, to militant fighters. For too long union members have allowed the mushrooming of bureaucratic and, in many instances, mob control to gain a stronger and stronger stranglehold over their lives and those of their families.

Of course we know that there are good unions, staffed by patriotic, honest, efficient men, working tirelessly for the members of their unions. The big reward these men enjoy is the good they can do for others. They are not interested in Napoleonic power or materialistic gains at the expense of their union members. They know too that the labor unions are just one segment of our society, and that cooperative meshing with other segments secures more benefits, present and future, for their members and America as a whole.

However, we can never forget that there are always unscrupulous, ambitious men scheming and planning to control the masses.

Our Founding Fathers knew this only too well. That is why they drafted our Constitution with to the maximum, protect us from future ambitious tyrants.

There never was a better time or climate to incorporate into the laws of our land a Constitution for Union Members. It is just as necessary, as were our Anti-Trust Laws of years ago, to curb and hold down excesses of power in the employer segment of our society.

Let us pattern our Union Members' Declaration of Independence from that of our United States.

When in the course of time it becomes necessary for a large segment of a free people to throw off the increasing bonds of increasing, unscrupulous, controlling minorities; to fully democratize our segment of society and insure future free democracy; to bring back a decent respect for the other segments of the society of our great America, with renewed understanding that each and every segment of our society is dependent upon each other, and

1. Jimmie was a shy little kid when he started out as a newspaperboy. He didn't have much "get up and go". In fact, he was even a little afraid of meeting and talking to folks on his route.

2. Within a couple of weeks, Jimmie got over some of his bashfulness. He enjoyed chatting with customers when making collections. He's learned the value of money from first-hand experience.

We watched Jimmie grow!

3. In competition with other boys, Jimmie is finding out how to "sell" and conduct a business of his own. He wins extra rewards. He makes greater route profits. He even carries his own insurance.

4. Jimmie has developed into the kind of boy you like to meet. And, he is continuing to learn principles that will pay big dividends in later years.

Man Wins Tussle With Capsized Towboat

Cook jumped into a 30-foot work boat and tackled the 175-foot derelict barge in a marine version of the battle between David and Goliath.

"I shoved and I shoved. I looked like a peanut beside it," Cook said. But he won. Cook managed to nudge the barge farther out into the river, where it sank.
